Drainage program proposed

Councilman Ellis Pennington called the condition of the Packard Drain in eastern Romulus "an emergency situation."

He said during the city council meeting Monday night that a local woman was recently hospitalized, and her doctor said the illness was caused "by dirty or stagnant water." That water, Pennington said, lies in the drain near the woman's home.

"This has been going on for years, and Wayne County is not going to do anything about drains in the city unless members of the city council go on record as demanding that they be cleaned immediately," he stressed.

He then made a motion which other members of the council unanimously approved. "I move we direct our city engineers to set up a drainage program to clean up the drain before it floods this fall," he said.

Pennington also recommended that this emergency situation warrants action by the city to clean the drain and "seek reimbursement from the county."

He said if outbreaks of hepatitis or diphtheria occurred, "then maybe Wayne County will wake up."

Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks agreed. "An emergency situation does exist. It seems like a simple matter and for some reason, it's not, just to clean a ditch," she said.

McNamara praises city "You responded with courage"

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara made a surprise appearance during the regular meeting of Romulus City Council members Monday night.

"I am here," he said, "to recognize the outstanding performance of city officials, employees and residents during the tragedy of Northwest Flight 255, the second worst air disaster in U.S. history."

The plane crashed Aug. 16 at the intersection of Middlebelt Road and the I-94 freeway. All passengers but one, 4-year-old Cecelia Cichan, were killed. Two people on the ground were also killed and several injured. In all, 156 people died in the mishap.

With his announcement, McNamara presented three Wayne County proclamations to the city administration, the police department and the fire department.

"To members of the city council, the mayor, community residents and emergency personnel who worked after the crash, I present this official document commemorating your achievement. You responded with courage at a time of disaster. The city of Romulus supplied needed manpower and equipment," he said.

McNamara presented a framed copy of the proclamation to Lt. Leonard Rukilla for the police department. "Officers went far beyond the call of duty. Through this trying ordeal, they maintained the dignity of the victims and the families. They brought order to a potentially chaotic situation," he said.

He noted that the Romulus Fire Department was among the first rescue squads on the scene. "They worked throughout the night confronted by a challenge of immense proportions. They too, showed professional dignity in the caring of their fellow people," added

Edward McNamara

McNamara.

McNamara concluded by stating, "I can't say much more. But I'm proud to be county executive with a community like Romulus."

Problem with airport noise voiced by local residents

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Nobody wore earplugs during the public information meeting conducted in Romulus City Hall by Wayne County officials last Tuesday...the audience wanted to hear every word.

The meeting was called by Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and Detroit Metropolitan Airport Staff to outline progress being made in the Metro Airport Part 150 Noise Compatibility Study.

The results were clear, airport noise and local residents are not compatible. The situation has been discussed at length by members of city council and Romulus residents for many years. Many residents said the situation has worsened since the merger of Northwest and the establishment of Metro as their United States operation hub.

The meeting was the first of four planned by airport officials who will also discuss the current status of Metro Airport expansion and the improvement program. Citizens were encouraged by the Director of Airports, Richard Jamison, to voice their opinion.

The purpose of the Part 150 study is to develop a balanced, cost effective, voluntary plan for reducing the impact of noise from the airport, Jamison explained.

— Beverly McAnally
Romulus Mayor

The process was established by Congress when the Aviation Safety and Noise Abatement Act of 1979 was approved by Congress. The purpose of the study is to provide a forum for all affected parties to evaluate ways to reduce airport noise.

"These studies will develop plans to accommodate future air traffic and to minimize the associated noise impacts," Jamison said.

Not only did airport officials attend, but also representatives from the nearby communities of Taylor, Inkster, Westland, Lincoln Park, Allen Park, Wayne, Belleville, Dearborn and Dearborn Heights. Sixty people were in attendance.

On Wednesday, the Technical Coordinating Committee, a local advisory group of city planners also met to discuss the problem of airport noise.

Thursday, the County Advisory Group on Noise Issues conducted a similar meeting. This group includes local mayors, county officials, representatives from labor unions, the airlines, business owners and representatives of Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

"People let us know the situation is very noisy," said Mayor Beverly McAnally, who attended both the meeting of CAGNI and the Romulus meeting.

"Residents had the opportunity to share their feelings about the noise problem at the airport. They said airplanes are more frequent and noise is worse than ever. Airport officials were surprised at the number of complaints about ground noise. This was residents' major concern," she said.

Residents were also concerned about their property values near the airport. "Land would be less valuable," one resident said.

Jamison conceded that airport officials have not in the past gone out into the community to understand what the public feels. During his closing statements, he made it clear that the county and airport will work with residents, although, he didn't know if the problems could be resolved. For these remarks he received a round of applause.

School receives fitness grant

Physical education has become fun again over at Barth Elementary School in Romulus thanks in part to a $6,000 grant from the National Fitness Campaign in Washington D.C. and the efforts of Riverside Osteopathic Hospital in Trenton.

The school received this unique "fitness court," complete with 14 different workout stations earlier this month. Station exercises include push ups, stretching apparatus as well as a dozen others.

Principal Bill Smith explained the philosophy behind the fitness resource. "The equipment and a program to use it were developed at Stanford University in California. The object is to make fitness part of an overall lifestyle change that will help people reduce their risk of heart disease," he said.

Smith notes that the court is open to all neighborhood residents. "This isn't just for kids. Adults are encouraged to use the facility for such things as body building, strength development, cardio vascular conditioning and weight loss. Of course, it even has the classic chin up bar," he said.

According to Smith and the President's Council on Fitness,

American youth are in "bad shape compared with the youth of other nations."

He cited a particular study in 1985 where 19,000 youth between the ages of 6 and 17 were tested. "Forty percent of the boys could do no more one pull-up. One out of four could not complete one," said Smith.

He intends to implement the fitness court into the regular physical education program. Smith likens the program to the nationwide emphasis on wellness and nutrition.

The cost of shipping and installation of the equipment was split between Romulus Board of Education and Barth School.

WAYNE COUNTY — Changes to several traffic control regulations involving Van Born Road in the cities of Romulus, Wayne, Westland and Van Buren and Canton townships will be reviewed tomorrow at the regular meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The traffic-control rules involve new parking restriction on several sections of the roadway, as recommended by Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. The board meets at 4 p.m. in the City-County Building, Detroit.

County executive names new public work head

WAYNE COUNTY — James E. Murray, drain commissioner of Washtenaw County since 1981, was named last week as the new director of the Wayne County Division of Public Works by county Executive Edward McNamara.

Murray is also known in the area for his role as president of the "Friends of the Rouge."

Beginning Nov. 1, Murray will replace retiring DPW Director James Hamilton. He will be responsible for overseeing the construction and maintenance of storm, water and sanitary drains and construction and operation of sewage disposal facilities, including pumping station and treatment plants as well as handling the administrative duties assigned by the drain code to a drain commissioner.

Alzheimer's group is formed for residents

THE ANNUAL AUCTION hosted by the city of Romulus has been scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 24 on the grounds of the Robert D. Plank Building on Goddard Road. Auctioneer Rollo Juckette of Dundee was selected by city council members during their Monday night meeting. During the auction, a variety of unused and obsolete city equipment and vehicles will be offered for sale to the highest bidder.

GOV. JAMES BLANCHARD recently appointed Mayor Beverly McAnally to the Job Training Council of Michigan. McAnally was also appointed chairman of the committee on community and economic development for the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. Of the SEMCOG appointment, the mayor said, "This is a powerful committee. This should enable me to know more about projects throughout the area and bring more development into Romulus. The city has experienced success with their development." On her other appointment the mayor noted, "We have to instill rewards for working and responsibility to those who try. Somewhere down the line, we have to modify the expectations of local youth who see no way out of lower paying jobs. They must understand they are learning, yet still receiving financial remuneration. Low-paying jobs are a step along the way rather than the ultimate goal." With both appointments, McAnally hopes to take part and influence several key decisions which would affect local residents, she said.

FOURTH FRIDAY COUNT is scheduled this week in the Romulus School District when are all students are officially counted. The amount of state aid available to the district is reflected in the number of students. In the high school, students will cast their votes for members of their homecoming court. The homecoming is scheduled for Oct. 16 with a parade beginning at 5 p.m. from city hall on Wayne north to the high school. Hawaii was selected as the homecoming theme. Another suggested theme, according to Mike Birmingham, student advisor, was famous mascots with the beer drinking dog in sun glasses, Spuds Mackenzie, leading the pack. Because of the controversial nature of Spuds, an alternative theme was chosen.

NO MONEY DOWN was the correct headline for a story that appeared in the Sept. 3 issue of the Romulus Roman about a Housing Rehabilitation Program offered by the city of Romulus. The headline instead read, "No More Money" which was directly opposite of the original intention. "People were not taking advantage of the program," said John Said, housing specialist. ROMULUS PUBLIC LIBRARY announces their pre-school story time for children between the ages of 2 and 5 at 10:30 a.m. Thursdays. The program begins Oct. 1 and continues through Dec. 3. Meadowbrook's Sassy Pitel and her owner Debbie Pitel of Romulus entered the Belleville Dog Show earlier this month and walked out with most of the first-place ribbons. While Sassy couldn't care less, Pitel was estactic. Sassy was named Best of the Breed (Dalmatian) and Best Adult Dog from a field of approximately 300 dogs. Sassy captured first place last month at the Pontiac Kennel Club show in Union Lake. Sassy was bred by Vaughn Whicker of Meadowbrook Kennel in Rochester. Her father, "Champion London's Cadbury Fudge," was number six in the country this summer during a Detroit dog show. Her mother is "Klassic Adventureland Manda." The show was sponsored by the Basset Club of Greater Detroit. "It's so unusual for a Dalmatian to win best of show. She's a wonderful dog, mild mannered and loves kids. This is the first time I ever trained a dog for show. again," said Pitel. ANP photo by Bob Denys

City undecided about crash memorial

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

A proposed monument in remembrance of the 156 victims of the crash of Northwest Flight 255 has had mixed reactions in the city of Romulus, according to Mayor Beverly McAnally.

Wayne County and local officials have organized a special committee to establish the criteria for a suitable memorial to the victims who died when the plane crashed at the intersection of Middlebelt Road and the I-94 freeway Aug. 16.

McAnally noted that she is listening to all sides of the situation and "if nothing should be erected, then nothing will be."

"I never said a monument would be fitting. We want to do that which is sensitive to the feelings of city residents. The issue was raised about erecting a monument at city hall listing all the names," she said.

"I think a monument would be a good idea," said Rhada Andrews, former teacher in the Romulus School District. "An awful lot of people got killed and an awful lot of people helped out. I go past the site three times a week. I think it should be erected there."

Ron Brugger, local business owner, said, "Personally, I would think people would want to forget it. In general, people don't want to remember bad things. It was tragic thing. God forbid, it happened here."

"Already, traffic is almost hazardous with people stopping and looking. It's a shame it happened here. I would have no objections to something erected elsewhere in the city or in the airport. Overall, we're lucky nothing worse happened."

Another resident who would rather not be reminded of the crash is Melvin Byrd, a long time resident. "We can keep it in the back of our mind. We don't need a constant reminder."

His wife, Dorothy, has "mixed emotions." "It's still so fresh in our memory. I think if a monument should be erected, it should be on the site."

Another suggestion about what to do in the form of remembrance is a flower garden. "A permanent flower bed would be nice," said Marilyn Cucchiara, a long time resident.

"I think it should be moved closer to the traffic light so people if they want, can stop and look and not block traffic. The victims rate some sort of recognition. It was such a sad situation," she said.

Bill Coaltrain, who lives within 600 feet of where the fuselage was found, was one of the first to arrive on the scene. He said he and other residents who live close to the crash site foresee a problem if a monument would be erected on the site.

"Already, traffic is almost hazardous with people stopping and looking. It's a shame it happened here. I would have no objections to something erected elsewhere in the city or in the airport. Overall, we're lucky nothing worse happened," he said.

"You could have 2 million crashes and 2 million monuments," said Earl Corpe, local Veteran of Foreign War trustee. "I could see the money used for something better."

Susan Dossette and her husband discussed the possibility of a monument shortly after the crash. "At first, we thought a plaque would be nice. Since then we've gone back and forth. Now, I don't think I like the idea of reminding people we had a crash here. Maybe, we could do something different. I don't know exactly."

Patty Mawby, community volunteer, doesn't like the idea.

Noise

"He said we'll work the problems out. And that he understood there has been little representation from local residents and communities in the past," said Chuck Wiswell, chairman of the environmental task force in Romulus.

McAnally stated the noise study is using state of the art equipment to determine noise and nearby land use. "We want to project well into the future, and make sure we just don't shift the noise from neighborhood to another," she said.

Councilmembers expressed concern about the manner in which they were notified of the meeting by the county claiming that some notification came the same day and some not at all. The mayor received her official notification just the day before.

"I was told that people who attended the meeting just followed the television news trucks," said Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks.

"I think the meeting was productive even though there wasn't a large turnout," said McAnally.

Several councilpersons offered their version of seriousness of the problem. Councilman Barry Baumann said, "This morning, I was awakened at nine minutes after three by noise from the airport."

"I always look at my clock, and it seems like whenever there's noise from the airport, often it's always at 3 a.m.," said Wiswell.

Councilman William Wadsworth explained that the last passenger flights depart at 12:35 a.m. and the first one arrives at 5:35 a.m.

"During the night there are only six flights, all cargo flights," he said.

Councilman Ellis Pennington said when the last time he was awakened by airport noise, "It was like somebody took ahold of my house and was shaking it. It lasted for 14 minutes. We've got to have it quiet. We need our sleep to go to work."

He suggested that if the airlines are going to work on their planes, "They should rev those engines up in an enclosed building. Some cities like Toronto close their airport from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m."

Baumann suggesting passing an ordinance restricting night travel. "In my opinion,

"I don't like to remember bad things. This would be a constant reminder of many people's suffering. I don't want to remember that."

Many others have mixed emotions, like Gary Hardwick of Romulus. "I have a good friend who is a volunteer fireman. It shook him up real bad. I know how I feel. My parents are totally against the idea of a monument."

His girl friend, Kim Williams, said, "It doesn't matter to me. I haven't really thought about it."

Ester Hadyniak also said, "It really doesn't matter if they put up a monument or not."

Her husband John feels a monument would be a nice gesture. "This was the first major airplane to crash in Romulus and hopefully the last. This is a pro and con deal. It could have been worse."

Another family who discussed the idea were the Zilkas. Debbie Zilka explained, "We're all against it. The city can't afford it nor do we want to be reminded of it. Maybe there should be a plaque in city hall, but nothing on the site."

And finally, George Witzgall, local party store owner, also thinks the tragedy should be forgotten. "I don't think we need a monument. It's better forgotten. Let's establish a scholarship fund or something to help people."

University study recommends sale of hospital

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

A group of about 150 demonstrators outside of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority administrative offices Thursday evening set the mood for the board members meeting inside. The demonstrators — members of the labor union representing one third of the PCHA work force — had assembled to protest a sale of the five PCHA-owned hospitals, one of three proposals recommended this month in a University of Michigan study.

The study was commissioned in April by state Rep. Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti), speaker of the state House of Representatives. Owen asked that officials from the University of Michigan Hospitals conduct the study on behalf of the state Legislature, which last year was faced with a PCHA-endorsed bill that would enable the publicly owned hospital authority to be reorganized into a private, non-profit organization.

PCHA board members, reacting to the study, established a special study committee at the Thursday meeting to review the U of M study and report back to the board on Oct. 29. Board member Milton Mack was named chairman of the committee.

"We are appreciative of the fact that Speaker Owen extended us the courtesy of a presentation to members of our board and administration," said Donald J. Pizzimenti, PCHA board chairman in a statement last week. "Obviously, we haven't had the opportunity to review the data and recommendations completely yet. . . . It is our responsibility to thoroughly study the document, and we look forward to cooperating with the Legislature in working out areas of differing opinion regarding the options available."

It is our responsibility to thoroughly study the document, and we look forward to cooperating with the Legislature —

Donald J. Pizzimenti

In the four-month study, U of M officials reviewed PCHA financial records and documents, interviewed hospital, medical and community leaders and analyzed the information obtained, according to the report. Through the analysis, a strong recommendation to sell all five PCHA hospitals was proposed, and two alternatives to such a sale were given.

PCHA-owned facilities include Annapolis Hospital, Wayne: Beyer Memorial, Ypsilanti: Seaway, Trenton: Heritage, Taylor: Outer Drive, Lincoln Park; an ambulatory care facility in Brownstown Township and two physical therapy clinics in Westland and Livonia.

"The investigators believe that the assets of PCHA should be sold to responsible buyers. All things being equal, it is in the best interest of the communities to acknowledge that the mission of PCHA has been accomplished and free themselves of the financial responsibility for maintaining PCHA under the current circumstances," the U of M report stated.

In recommending the sale, the U of M report cited declining occupancies in the five PCHA hospitals and 1986 operating losses of $6.2 million. Only one PCHA hospital — Annapolis — reported net revenues for the fiscal year, according to the report.

By 1992, the report continued, the authority will exhaust all cash resources. Maureen Camps, director of PCHA community relations, said the financial findings were nothing new to PCHA board members, who last year endorsed a special steering committee report that indicated a similar financial gloom-and-doom story for the authority. It was this report, Camps said, that caused PCHA board members to ask the state Legislature to amend Public Act 47 which created the authority and allow the group of hospitals to be converted into a private, non-profit organization.

"I think our reaction to this is that most of the things they are telling us to do are things we already realize," Camps said. "We realized that we were losing market share back in February 1986."

"I guess our point of view is now we'll be able to enter into a productive dialog with the state Legislature," she continued. Camps said the reorganization would allow the new board of directors to become competitive in the local health care scene and conduct strategic planning moves without constant public scrutiny.

Nevertheless, the U of M study was highly critical of the structure of the authority and current PCHA board. "The sheer size and diversity of the board," the report stated, "and the very visible nature of PCHA in local community politics had contributed to a conservative, eg-

Speed limit and tax reform are top goals for new Legislature

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

State and federal legislators expect to get down to business in the new year as the 1987-1988 sessions convened in Lansing and Washington D.C. last Tuesday. This year Congress meets for the 100th session and as usual, money, and the lack of it, is the number one problem.

Congress is expected to tackle some particularly heavy topics this session, according to Ted Rozeboom, legislative assistant to U.S. Senator Donald Reigle.

"The budget is a top priority," he stated. "This year is significant because general revenue sharing will no longer be available to local communities. Other major cuts have targeted Community Development Block Grants and Urban Development Action Grants." These grants have been reduced to $225 million from a high of $675 million in 1981, according to Rozeboom. "As a result, competition among communities for these grants will be fierce. Michigan ranks near the top of states already receiving UDAGs. For every $1 received from UDAG, $2.5 must be contributed from the private sector," he said.

These grants are often used to finance apartments and housing. Such local projects as the Chrysler-Jefferson Assembly Plant and the Mazda Flat Rock plant have also used UDAG money.

The freeze introduced as part of the budget resolution is expected to be approved by Congress in October or November.

On the local scene, Michigan State Senator Bill Faust said the budget is among a host of problems facing local legislatures this session.

The fiscal year begins Oct. 1. The new budget should top $5 billion. "We received a report from the Education Task Force last week. A state-wide millage and an increase in the sales tax has been recommended. The governor cut over $275 million from the budget during the summer. This money will have to be made up somehow," he said.

Product liability is a controversial issue expected to receive action by Christmas, Faust noted. "We will be looking at tightening up the liability laws and putting a cap on the amount of awards victims receive. At the present time, a problem exists for the consumer and the business. Time limits which are now open ended will be instituted," he said.

The question of wetlands, what are they and how do they need to be protected will also be addressed, Faust noted.

"The wetlands issue is beginning to boil. At the present time, nothing specifies how to regulate land identified as a wetland. A final report from the Department of Natural Resources is expected before Oct. 15. I don't see anything happening until 1988," he said.

Another hot topic is surrogate motherhood. "The Senate acted on a bill introduced last session clarifying in which instances surrogate motherhood would be permitted," Faust said.

The legislature hopes to create a super fund to clean up landfill sites and funding for the court-ordered expansion of jail space is imminent. "These things command our immediate attention," Faust said.

State Representative Jim Kosteva again reiterated his concern for the 1987-1988 budget which needs "to be adjusted."

"I see a major reduction in money to local school districts. The education budget has been reduced by $30 million. Changes have been proposed to cut the revenue from property

Class president dies in car crash

As the 1988 senior class president, Kris Ann Kormos, 17, organized one of the most successful fundraising dances Huron High School students ever attended.

The next day, Saturday, Sept. 12, Kormos was killed when the car she was driving struck a tree less than a mile from her home.

However, Kormos will be remembered not for how she died, but how she lived. According to family members, teachers and friends her impact on their lives was dramatic.

"She never put kids into a classification. No student was better than another. Everybody was worthy of attention. She was well liked," said Dave Kuykendall, senior class advisor.

Kormos was the youngest of four children to Sallyann and Albert J. Kormos of Belleville. She is the sister of Sue Kormos of Belleville, Cheri DeLong of Romulus and Albert (Albie) Jr.

"She taught me how to care and how to live right," said Albie.

Her mother still finds the loss difficult. "It's a tremendous loss as it would be to any family. She was so outgoing. Just after school started, she told me about a teacher who remarked that when he saw her, he saw a bouquet of flowers. She was special to everyone," Sallyann said.

Kormos had previously served as junior class treasurer. She was member of Students Against Drunk Driving. She earned a varsity letter during her two years on the golf team and received the coveted coaches award. She was member of the Wrestlerettes and the Sunday Youth classic bowling league. Last year, she was elected to the St. Stephen parish council in New Boston.

For the past two years, she worked for Block's Greenhouse in Romulus. "During the summer, she worked 12 hours a day, six days a week. On her day off, she finagled a way to go back. Block's was her life. She loved every minute she was there," her mother said.

Hospital

In the plan of sale, the U of M study recommended the sale of the five hospitals to an outside agency. Each hospital, the study said, should be marketed in a manner that reflects the most realistic role each facility can fulfill in the geographic area in which it is located. Proposed futures of the five buildings include, according to the study:

- Maintain Annapolis as a full-service community hospital, while upgrading the public image of it;
- Transform Beyer Memorial into a low-cost satellite of one or more major medical centers;
- Use Heritage as a low-cost, high quality behavioral medicine facility that offers programs in psychiatry, eating disorders and substance abuse;
- Use Outer Drive as a low-cost satellite health center for a major medical organization; and
- Maintain Seaway as a small, full-service community hospital providing a full range of primary- and secondary-care services.

Under the U of M plan, all PCHA assets would be sold and "include a potential financial return on the community's investment." Currently - and since 1945 when the PCHA was established by the state Legislature - residents in each of the 24 members' communities are levied a tax millage for the construction of the five hospitals. The bonds issued to fund the project will be repaid in 1992, according to the report.

Among the 24 member PCHA communities are the cities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Romulus and Belleville and Van Buren and Sumpter Townships. Taxpayers are currently levied .2 mills to repay outstanding debts, while the operation of the hospitals is funded by revenues collected for services.

Despite the highly recommended sale of the hospital authority, the U of M study also offered two alternatives. According to Camps, neither alternative exactly resembles what PCHA board members endorsed last year. The alternatives include:

- Maintaining the PCHA as a public agency, with the 24 member communities controlling and retaining control of the assets.
- Under this plan, the study recommended that a tertiary referral center - or large health care organization - become linked with the PCHA and that the board of directors be reduced from the current 47 members to 15. Of the 15, eight members would be from the tertiary referral center, five from individual hospital advisory boards, one management representative and a medical staff representative.

The second alternative included:

- Reorganizing the PCHA into a private, nonprofit, tax-exempt corporation.
- Under this alternative, the study said, a link with a tertiary medical center would also be advised, the board size would be reduced, and control of the authority would rest with the tertiary care center.

PAUL POLICICCHIO, VICE president of the Service Employees Union Local 79 representing about 1,500 of the 3,500 PCHA employees, said his union will publicly oppose the sale of the hospitals at both the local and state levels. More than 150 SEIU members - the non-licensed staff members at the hospitals - demonstrated for about one hour before the PCHA board meeting last Thursday, Policicchio said.

The union leader and officials from the national and Detroit chapters of the AFL-CIO brought their protest inside the building once the meeting began and made presentations opposing the sale.

Policicchio said the union members oppose the sale because of fear that a larger health care agency would close up to three of the five hospitals. The closures, he said, would mean the loss of jobs for hundreds of workers, crippling the western Wayne County and downriver communities.

State Rep. Jim Kosteva (D-Canton) expects some action on the study by state lawmakers within 90 to 120 days. Although impressed with the thoroughness of the U of M study, Kosteva said he and his colleagues are awaiting public feedback from the communities.

"We are very anxious to get some kind of feedback from the local communities. We're going to be looking to the local communities for more information before we can make any decision," he said.

Retiring Art Allen will leave legacy

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

For the past 60 years, area men in need of a tie, shirt of pair of shoes simply had the task of walking down to 34902 Michigan Ave. in downtown Wayne for an answer to their problems.

But those days will soon be only a memory.

On Sept. 30, Wayne residents will say "goodbye" to Art Allen's Men's Store. The city will be losing a great businessman, a retail expert and a longtime friend, according to several local business owners.

"I have enjoyed my 17 years in Wayne," said Allen, who bought the store from longtime owner Lee Adams in December 1970. "I will definitely miss the business."

Allen, who was business manager of Annapolis Hospital before buying the local business, believed in customer service.

"We will continue to carry the same fine lines of merchandise and continue to offer courtesy and service with it," said Allen when he bought the store.

When asked what he would miss most about the business, Allen's answer was obvious.

"I will miss the customers," he said. "I got a chance to build a good relationship with the customers, and I was lucky to do it in pleasant surroundings."

But, he said, the hectic job of keeping up with the constant changes in style will not be missed.

Art Allen

"The biggest changes over the years have been in style," Allen said. "Today you have a wider variety in styles. And it has changed from black and white to multiple colors. The clothes have changed considerably," he explained.

Tuxedos, although also subject to constant change, have been the biggest sellers at the store, Allen said, and one of the store owner's favorite pieces of merchandise.

"I would say the tuxes were about half of the business," he explained. "I was concentrating more on them, and they were getting higher sales."

But even with those efforts, Allen said the time has come for a change, a change that will mean the loss of a great friend for several of his longtime customers.

'Hire the handicapped week' set

Visitors and clients at the Michigan Department of Education, Rehabilitation Services in Wayne are greeted with the warm smile and bright eyes of Susan Rose, a veteran secretary for the past 11 years.

Rose is normally pleasant and cordial. She obtained the job after graduating from the Detroit College of Business. This was her first job. How did she get it?

"I was a client first," she said.

Rose was born with cerebral palsy and uses a Canadian walker for mobility. She rarely misses a beat, and her employers are proud of her.

Another success story - John Hirtzel and Caroline Zyskowski are the two supervisors at the "rehab" center. They are especially proud because next week across the nation is hire the handicapped week.

"The function is to work with people who have a physical handicap or disability which makes it difficult for them to obtain or retain employment," said Zyskowski.

"Self esteem is the most important part of what we provide. We give them a chance to be productive and self-supporting citizens. We want employers who never considered hiring the handicapped before to take a second look. Our number is 722-7431," Zyskowski continued.

Registration available

While the end of September is only hours away, late registration for classes at Cleary College is still being conducted until the end of the week.

Classes at all Cleary locations opened Sept. 23, and courses are filling at a steady pace, according to Carla Mandel, dean of the Cleary Continuing Education and Management Development department.

"We are delighted with the response, considering we only started this whole program with the extension about six weeks ago," said Mandel.

Cleary College is an open-enrollment college, offering associate's degrees in eight course areas and bachelor's degrees in five areas.

Because the school offers an open enrollment, Mandel said, courses are also offered to people who have no high school diploma or equivalent General Education Diploma.

Registrations are being accepted from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. until Friday. For registration or course information, call the Cleary Inkster extension office at 729-0240 or main campus at 483-4400.

It's so easy to go to Windsor

And so much fun!

Just get in your car and head for the bridge or the tunnel to Canada. And as soon as you're there, you're in Windsor! If you don't have a car, take your yacht—because there's lots of places to dock a boat on the other side.

If you like sidewalk cafes, tree-lined boulevards and a lively, bustling city, you'll like Windsor. It's great for lunch or dinner, with places like TBQ's Other Place and the Hilton Park Terrace. You can walk anywhere you want to downtown, then get in your car and go shopping or sightseeing.

Go for a drive along the river. You'll find 16 miles of riverfront where the best view of Detroit is from Windsor. Think of all the things you'll find along the way—lively street fairs, flower parks, and little harbors full of fishing boats. You won't find a waterfront like it anywhere else in the country.

Go to Windsor for the nightlife. There's rock and roll, jazz. And the Windsor Symphony. If you're looking for a little night music, you've come to the right place: Windsor.

Enjoy shopping and enjoy saving, where your money's worth much more. At Devonshire Mall, you shop where Canadians shop—at 150 stores just 10 minutes from downtown Windsor. Save on housewares, clothing, jewelry, gifts, cameras and sporting goods.

There's another country just a mile away from Detroit. And another city: Windsor. A blend of European charm, friendly people and plenty to see and do. It could be just the change of scene you need, and it's only minutes away.

Public reaction will be needed

It will only take a card. Or a letter. Or a phone call to your state lawmakers.

It may be the most valuable investment your 22 cent stamp or 20 cent phone call will ever make in relation to local health care.

State lawmakers are awaiting public reaction to a University of Michigan study this month which outlined a step-by-step business plan for the future of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority – a plan that called for the sale of the five hospitals owned by the authority and significant changes in the local health care scenario.

The PCHA is the publicly owned health care organization created in 1945 to promote the construction of hospitals and medical facilities in western Wayne County and downriver. The authority is knit together by the 24 member communities and a 47-member board of directors. Each community sends one or two representatives to sit on the board, and seven members are chosen at large.

The PCHA is the five hospitals it operates – Annapolis, Beyer Memorial, Seaway, Heritage and Outer Drive and the PT Plus physical therapy centers in Westland and Livonia.

The PCHA is a financially doomed organization, with a $6.2 million on-the-books loss for fiscal year 1986 and projected zero-balance cash reserve account by 1992.

The PCHA is a remnant of days gone by and is a public agency that must now be eliminated.

That statement is not an opinion we hold exclusively. The University of Michigan Hospital research team – which for four months has analyzed PCHA financial records, interviewed employees, community leaders and medical experts and developed an in-depth report on the conclusions - beat us to the punch last week when they recommended that the agency be disbanded and that the assets be sold. In addition, the U of M team recommended that residents of the 24 member communities, which for 42 years have been levied a special tax to support the construction of the five medical facilities, be in some way repaid for their investment.

But the PCHA board members don't agree with us. Many of the board members continue to support a reorganization of the agency into a private, non-profit organization. They say this restructuring would allow the authority to be more competitive in the health care industry.

But what do you think? Your local lawmakers are awaiting your reaction before they make amendments to Public Act 47 which created the PCHA. They are awaiting your viewpoints before they formulate their own.

We have given you our opinion, and we've also tossed in an opposing point of view for comparison. Now it is your turn to take a side in this issue . . . but time is running out.

State lawmakers are being urged to take action on the U of M study within 90 to 120 days. Your prompt reaction – your 20 or 22 cent investment – could make a health-care difference that will affect us all.

Requiem for a lightweight

dave willett

It seems inconceivable that it took him just a few short weeks to totally win our hearts. He became our friend, our companion and a vital member of our family.

I knew immediately at our first meeting that we would form a bond that would never be broken. I still don't understand what it was, perhaps the look in his big, blue eyes or the expression on his tiny, trusting little face. It may have been the attentive tilt of his head or perhaps just the way he said... "meow."

Andrew weighed only 18 ounces when he came to live with us. This tiny bundle of love was an anniversary gift to me from my wife who knew I had long wanted a Himalayan kitten.

I named Andrew after Dr. Andrew Willett, the Vicar of Barley. Dr. Willett was a man of some note in 15th century England. Ironical that such a contrast exists between two of God's creatures with the same name.

It would be hard to imagine a more loving friend than my furry little companion. He learned to climb up the side of the bedspread and creep up from the end of the bed until he would find my chest. There he would curl up in a ball and fall asleep for most of the night, every night.

When he was extremely happy, his purring could be heard throughout the room. And when he was hungry, he sang out in a loud and persistent cry for immediate attention to his needs.

His playful romping and attacking of such villains as my shoe, hanging ties, or the corner of the bedspread, became some of the best entertainment one can imagine.

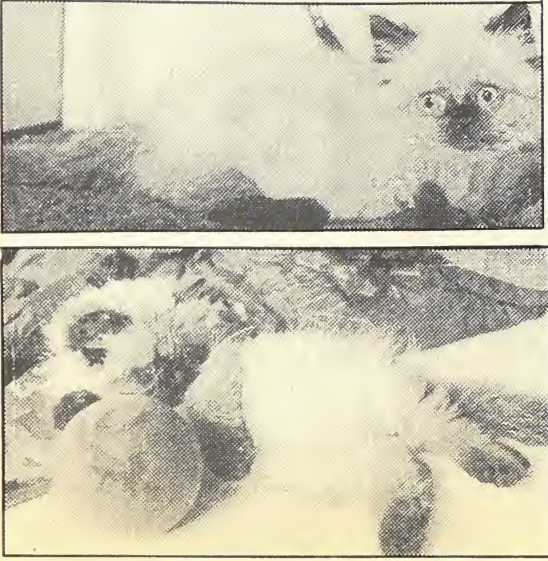

During the last few weeks, we have been weighing this monstrous feline in our food scale. He grew all of approximately 4 ounces a week. And he became one of the greatest joys of my life in a sea of difficulties.

Two weeks ago we began to think that his round little belly might be more than just kitten cuteness and Susan became convinced that a trip to the vet was in order.

So off Andy went in his little carrier, sitting on a full-size pillow Susan had stuffed inside for his royal personage.

It seemed like a very short time later that Susan returned. We had been beset with family problems and I was occupied on the telephone, attempting to deal with the situations when she came in, nearly hysterical with grief.

I soon discovered the reason. The veterinarian had diagnosed Andrew as a victim of FIP, Feline Intestinal Peritonitis, the most dreaded of diseases for cats. There is no treatment or cure.

The vet had taken a blood sample and dispatched it to a laboratory in Dallas which specializes in such analysis. While the vet was positive of the diagnosis, she felt such confirmation was necessary for our protection. She also told Susan that Andrew's death would probably come within 48 hours.

In this day and age, we're accustomed to there being a solution somewhere for all manner of problem. To be told that such a young, delicate and innocent creature was doomed seemed impossible to us.

We waited for the verdict that night Susan sleeping on the couch with Andy, his listless behavior now painfully obvious to us.

Andy was starving to death before our very eyes, and there was nothing that we could do to save him. This cuddly little creature that had given us nothing but love was slipping away from us after just a few short weeks.

I told Susan in the morning that I would take our little friend to hear the final verdict. As I lifted his carrier and walked to the car, Andy rode trustingly on his pillow and purred to me, knowing that I loved him as much as he loved me. As I talked to him on our journey, he meowed to me and peered through the grill with his gorgeous blue eyes.

As I carried him into the vet's office, I feared the worst, and as I waited, I lifted his little bird-like body out of his carrier and placed him on my lap.

Questions still surround shooting

To The Editor:

I am extremely upset with the Wayne Police and Wayne Director of Public Safety Ray LeCornu in the handling of the July 26 shooting and Aug. 5 death of my brother, Michael Pitcher.

Michael was shot in the head while driving down Michigar Avenue with a friend. This caused his jeep to jump a curb, hit a local pub and tip over. He was transported to Westland Medical Center, where he died 10 days later.

How can my family put trust in the Wayne Police and LeCornu, when both seem to be tripping over their own stories?

In a recent interview, LeCornu said that a bullet was not mentioned to anyone at any time, until an autopsy was performed on Michael. My family was told upon arrival to the hospital, shortly after the accident occurred, that Michael had indeed been shot in the head. The emergency room physician had also told an officer that Michael had been shot through the base of the skull and showed him X-rays which showed the bullet at the base of the brain.

LeCornu also said had he known it was a shooting, the matter would have been handled differently, instead of as a traffic accident. My family was assured by the Wayne police that this was being investigated as a murder from the beginning. Who are we to believe?

It is my belief that many serious mistakes were made in the first few days following this incident by the Wayne police, and now both Wayne police and LeCornu are trying to cover them up.

My brother Michael was a wonderful person, who lived life to the fullest and put a smile on the faces of all who knew him. Knowing the truth of this incident will never bring him back to us, but perhaps his family could rest a little easier if we could believe that everything possible had been done to find his murderer.

Resident supports firefighters

To the Editor:

I am writing in regards to the recent plane crash at Metro Airport. We have all read and watched countless reports about the policemen that were on the scene. The one report I watched Tuesday stated how they rotated shifts and went home for a few hours to rest or whatever, then they returned to the crash site.

Don't misunderstand me, I think they did an excellent job, but what about the Romulus firefighters, who I may add are one hundred percent volunteer, that were on the scene for twenty hours. They didn't go home and rest, they stayed there.

Some people may say, "Well they should be there that's their job." Well, it's not, they are volunteer firefighters, they don't have to go to all fires and they can leave when they need to. But they didn't leave. I am very proud of our fire department.

A very close friend of mine is one of those men that was there for twenty hours. And he was not the same young man when he came home Monday night as he was Sunday when he left.

They don't want a pat on the back or any thanks. But it takes a special person to be a firefighter and I think they deserve to be recognized.

Certainly, they will win. Any team with Sparky Anderson as manager is bound to win. They have to win.

Connie Jarvis
of Westland
I hope so. I sure hope so! If they get all of their ducks in a row, I think they can take it.

Ed Woodland
of Westland
Yes, I'm a loyal Tiger fan. If they go with all starting pitchers and Milwaukee beats the Blue Hays, that will help.

Allen Nowicki
of Canton
No, they are not a good enough team. They have a lot more work to do, and they need to trade some.

Rich Berger
of Westland
I don't think they'll make it. I think their pitching is too weak to take them there. Toronto's pitching is just too strong, and our bullpen is too weak.

Fred Gill

They lost four out of five games. They lost the first game of the Baltimore series, while Milwaukee beat Toronto. They are not up to the task. Toronto will win the American League East.

Pope was 'welcomed' by all

The 1987 U.S. papal visit has ended, following months of press and preparations. Things have quieted down everywhere, and now it is time to reflect on the meaning of the visit.

Having been born and raised a Roman Catholic, I, too, waited with much anticipation for the papal visit.

Because of poor planning and a touch of procrastination, however, I was not one of the many fortunate people who were actually present at any of the pontiff's speeches.

But, thanks to modern technology, I was able to videotape the papal visit every step of the way in great detail, since our cable company carries a Catholic network which cablecast live, round-the-clock coverage of the tour.

Taking these factors into consideration, I feel qualified to give my own personal views about the papal visit, since I can see it from both the view of an informed observer and a Catholic.

First of all, I was deeply moved by the visit, even if I wasn't personally there.

I felt a sense of unity with fellow Christians everywhere, and that sense of unity was prevalent throughout most of the papal tour.

Notice I say "fellow Christians" and not just fellow Catholics.

I stress this because I think that a lot of people had the wrong idea about the papal tour.

janice fritz speaking

Throughout the final weeks preceding the pontiff's arrival to the States, I heard it all. The jokes, the insults, the complaints that his pending arrival was getting "too much press."

Too much press? This was a big thing. Think about it. We make everything else a big thing, don't we? If Jim and Tammy Bakker were to suddenly decide to travel to several states to speak, don't you think that the press would cover that in great detail? And lest we forget the two royal weddings that were aired on every major network—live. And what about everything else that ends up being dragged on for weeks on end?

I also heard that there were complaints about how expensive the papal tour was. Yet, don't we go all out to entertain other world leaders who come to America? And if we could spend millions of dollars daily to advertise hamburgers, then what is so wrong with going the extra mile to make a visitor to our country feel welcomed and loved?

OK, I'll admit I am partial because I am a Catholic. But here's the point I'm trying to get across . . . the pope wasn't here just so he could say that our denomination is superior to any other denomination. He was here to strengthen all of our ties with God, no matter what our personal religion is.

Almost everyone, at least the people that I know, believes in some form of a divine being, and that divine being is usually God.

The pope's mission was to encourage us all to keep believing in God, despite all of the corruption that we see all around us.

Of course, it was only natural for the pope to appeal to the Catholics. But he wasn't pushing Catholicism in any "non-Catholics" faces.

He welcomed people from all denominations.

The 1987 U.S. Papal Visit is one that will remain in the memories of hundreds of thousands of people throughout our country, and I think that His Holiness left America with an overall positive attitude about the trip.

And that positive attitude was due to the many people who spent long hours preparing for the pope's visit and especially to the millions of people who made him feel so welcome.

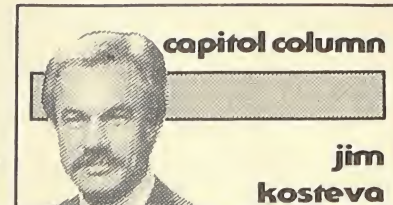

It's so nice to see that, despite the hectic, busy schedule that most of us keep everyday, and despite all of the preoccupation that we often have with "getting ahead," people have still made room in their lives for God.

Cameras get their day in court

Modern communication technology has made it possible for important information to be spread faster and more extensively than had ever been thought possible. Video and photographic advances, cable television transmission and satellite broadcast and the increased sophistication of radio technology have enabled more and more people to find out what is happening in all areas of life.

The new communication technology will soon open up the workings of Michigan courts to newspaper readers, television watchers and radio listeners. The state Supreme Court has issued a new policy that will allow the taking of news photographs, video camera coverage and live radio broadcast of certain courtroom proceedings in the state.

The new policy, which takes effect on an experimental basis early next year, resulted from recommendations made by a citizen's committee investigating the operation of Michigan courts. The study showed that many people in our state have misconceptions about important legal proceedings, fostered

in part by dramatic enactments on television programs and in movies. Supporters of the new policy say that the new electronic access will enable Michigan residents to get a clearer understanding of what actually happens in a court of law.

The Supreme Court electronic media coverage policy, which will be reviewed after one year, contains specific guidelines. For instance, such coverage will only be allowed with the consent of the presiding judge, the defendant, plaintiff and their attorneys and, in criminal cases, the victim and witnesses.

Film or electronic coverage of any witness will not be permitted if the witness objects. Similarly, no electronic coverage will be permitted of jury selection proceedings, conferences between attorneys and their clients, between co-counsel or of conferences at the judge's bench. Media personnel will be required to conduct themselves in a manner that will not distract from the court proceedings. The number and type of cameras and equipment used will also be limited.

Solo

As I stroked his little body, felt his warmth, I trembled at the thought of what might lay ahead. Soon they called me to come in and hear the test results. It was as we feared.

I began to lose control. I was barely able to make myself understood, as I attempted to ask if they were absolutely sure there was nothing that could be done.

They had told us the day before that the only alternative was euthanasia, rather than letting him suffer a long and lingering death.

Never in my life have I experienced such a feeling of hopelessness, coupled with sadness and anxiety, knowing that I was taking action that would cause one of God's creatures death. I signed, handed Andrew over, and left. My heart was broken. Facing Susan was painful and sheer torture.

I will never forget little Andrew. His passing has touched me as deeply as anything I have ever experienced. While we think that we are pretty tough characters, and are accustomed to dealing with adversity, the death of Andrew reduced Susan and I to tears for days.

I will never forget this tiny creature. He will be there, in my heart, as long as I live. He showed me many things that I had forgotten, or perhaps never knew. Above all else, he showed me how good it is to love, and to be loved, if even for a moment in time. I love you Andy, and I always will.

AS OF MONDAY, Sept. 28th, every hospital, police department, fire department and school in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties will receive free Lifesaver Tags courtesy of Great Scott Supermarkets and Lifesaver Charities. Lifesaver tags are a system whereby first respondents, police, paramedics and emergency room doctors can get vital information in a uniform manner so that they may properly deal with an injured person. The tags were the brainchild of George Wager of Buena Park, California. After reading the story of an injured child who could not receive medical treatment until his parents were found six hours later, Wager noticed the identification tag on his pet dog's collar and decided that his children should have the benefit of the same protection. Wager founded Lifesaver Charities, a nonprofit organization, which has given away over 30 million of the durable, non-erasable, waterproof tags which are designed to be laced into a child's shoelaces or sewn into clothing. The tags are also recommended for joggers, bicyclists, walkers, senior citizens, pregnant women and the disabled.

Memories

Hudson is a master at remembering

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Jack Hudson of Wayne remembers when the Titanic sank in 1912. His brother was booked as a passenger.

However, thanks to the goodness of the Lord - as Hudson would say - his brother didn't set sail on the boat and escaped a probable death.

But all events during Hudson's 89 years on earth haven't been so lucky. Sure, he said, there have been many failures, sorrows and sadnesses - but there have also been plenty of times to celebrate and remember. And remembering is one skill Hudson has mastered into a fine art.

"I'm doing all right for an old man my age. I thank the Lord I'm as good as I am," Hudson said.

Born and raised in Ilkley, England, near Yorkshire, Hudson joined the British Army at age 16. The year was 1914, and the greatest battle to ever be fought - World War I - was brewing in Europe.

Hudson' family moved to the United States before the war began to join his father, who had accepted a job as a floriculturist at Wayne County General Hospital. Hudson remained with the British Army to fight the bloody battles the would ensue and to later join his family in the States.

He, too, became a member of the Wayne County General hospital staff in 1920.

Today, Hudson has the distinction of being the oldest retiree of the former county hospital. He lives with his daughter in Wayne and spends many of his days reminiscing about the days gone by - the memories . . . the good times . . . and the bad.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: What kind of action did you see during the war?

HUDSON: I saw a lot. Things were so bad, they had to take 16

focus on people

year olds. I was never wounded, but the Germans gassed us twice.

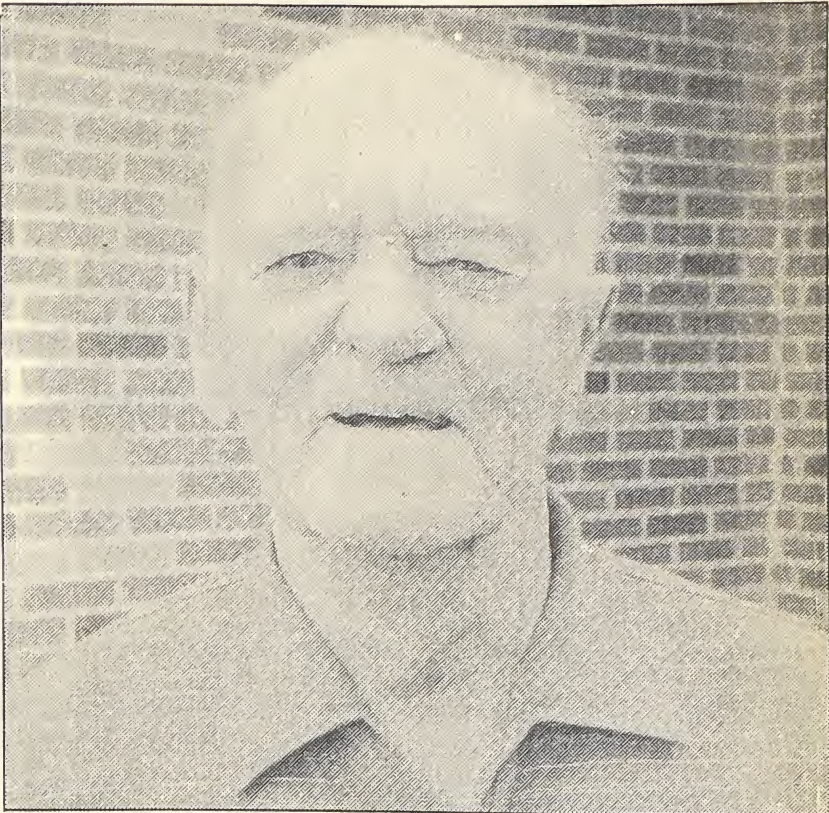

The colonel of our battalion lined up all the men and was asking them some questions. When no one answered him, he asked again. Because I knew the answer, I stepped forward. He rode his horse around in front of me and asked a couple more questions. The next day he made me a corporal. I turned down a promotion to drill sergeant so I could be with my buddy.

My buddy, Arthur, and I joined at different times. What happened was unbelievable. The army sent me to one place. It was Sunday, so I went to church. As I was sitting, I noticed a man wearing a uniform directly in front of me who looked like Arthur. When we discovered each other, what a reunion!

Within the year, he was killed six feet from me in the first battle we ever fought. We started with 1,000 men in the company and finished with 234. It had been raining for 14 straight days, and we were standing in water up to our knees. One week after this battle, we were shipped to Belgium.

In those days, if your friend died in battle, it was a soldier's duty to inform the family. So when I was on leave, I went to tell his mother about what happened. I saw her look out the window as I was coming down the street. When I knocked at the door and no one answered, I walked in. His mother had fainted. No one was home. This was the hardest thing I ever had to do. It was awful. She used to send packages filled with homemade goodies. She still sent them to me.

ANP:How did you become a floriculturist?

Jack Hudson

HUDSON:My dad owned a flower store with four greenhouses and a big nursery. In 1912, he arrived in Canada. Three years later, he sent for the family when he accepted a job as supervisor of the greenhouses and grounds at Eloise. I was the sixth of 13 children.

Eloise was the most beautiful place to live and work. There were flower gardens and exotic trees. He even built a large round stone garden in the shape of a basket. It's still there.

After the war, I joined him as his assistant. When he retired in 1950, I became superintendent. He was never sick a day in his life. But within one year, he died. I didn't want the same thing to happen, so five years later I retired.

My dad would take prizes galore whenever he entered a flower show. I remember when Mrs. Henry Ford asked him to work for her in Dearborn. My dad had heard how difficult was to work for the Fords. I heard him say, "I would never work for you for a million dollars." Those things are kind of funny.

As it turned out, my brother ran the Wayne County farm where they grew enough to supply the entire Eloise complex until crops came in for the next year.

ANP: What about your wife, how did you meet her?

HUDSON: Mattie and I met while working at Eloise. She used to bring patients to the greenhouses every Friday to pick flowers. We started going together and eventually married.

After we raised our four children, we moved to Florida where we built a house. When she died 14 years ago, I moved back to Wayne and now live with my daughter. I really miss her. We traveled every summer together. Everything went swell. She was good woman and a hard worker. We had a good family life.

Dockets have a pattern

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Judge Wapner and the "People's Court" are as close a representation of the local court system people will find on television, according to David Wiacek, court administrator for the 18th District Court in Westland.

"All you can say about 'Nightcourt' with Judge Harry Stone is that it's funny, but not very real," he continued.

People tend to expect their day in court to be like what they see on television or in the movies, Wiacek said. Contrary to the Academy Award-winning performance by Paul Neuman in the "The Verdict," attorneys and their clients don't always win their cases.

"Unfortunately, our caseload is steady. I wish I could say for the sake of the community that criminal activity is down. In fact, during the past few days, we've noticed an increase in the number of people arrested for possession of stolen vehicles. Much of our business is cyclical and seasonal," Wiacek explained.

Wiacek said that for some unexplained reason, activity in the courts always increases during periods of a full moon.

"It's crazy but true. We have more problems related to fighting and alcohol during a full moon. And it doesn't matter whether it's cloudy outside or clear. That time of the month is definitely busy."

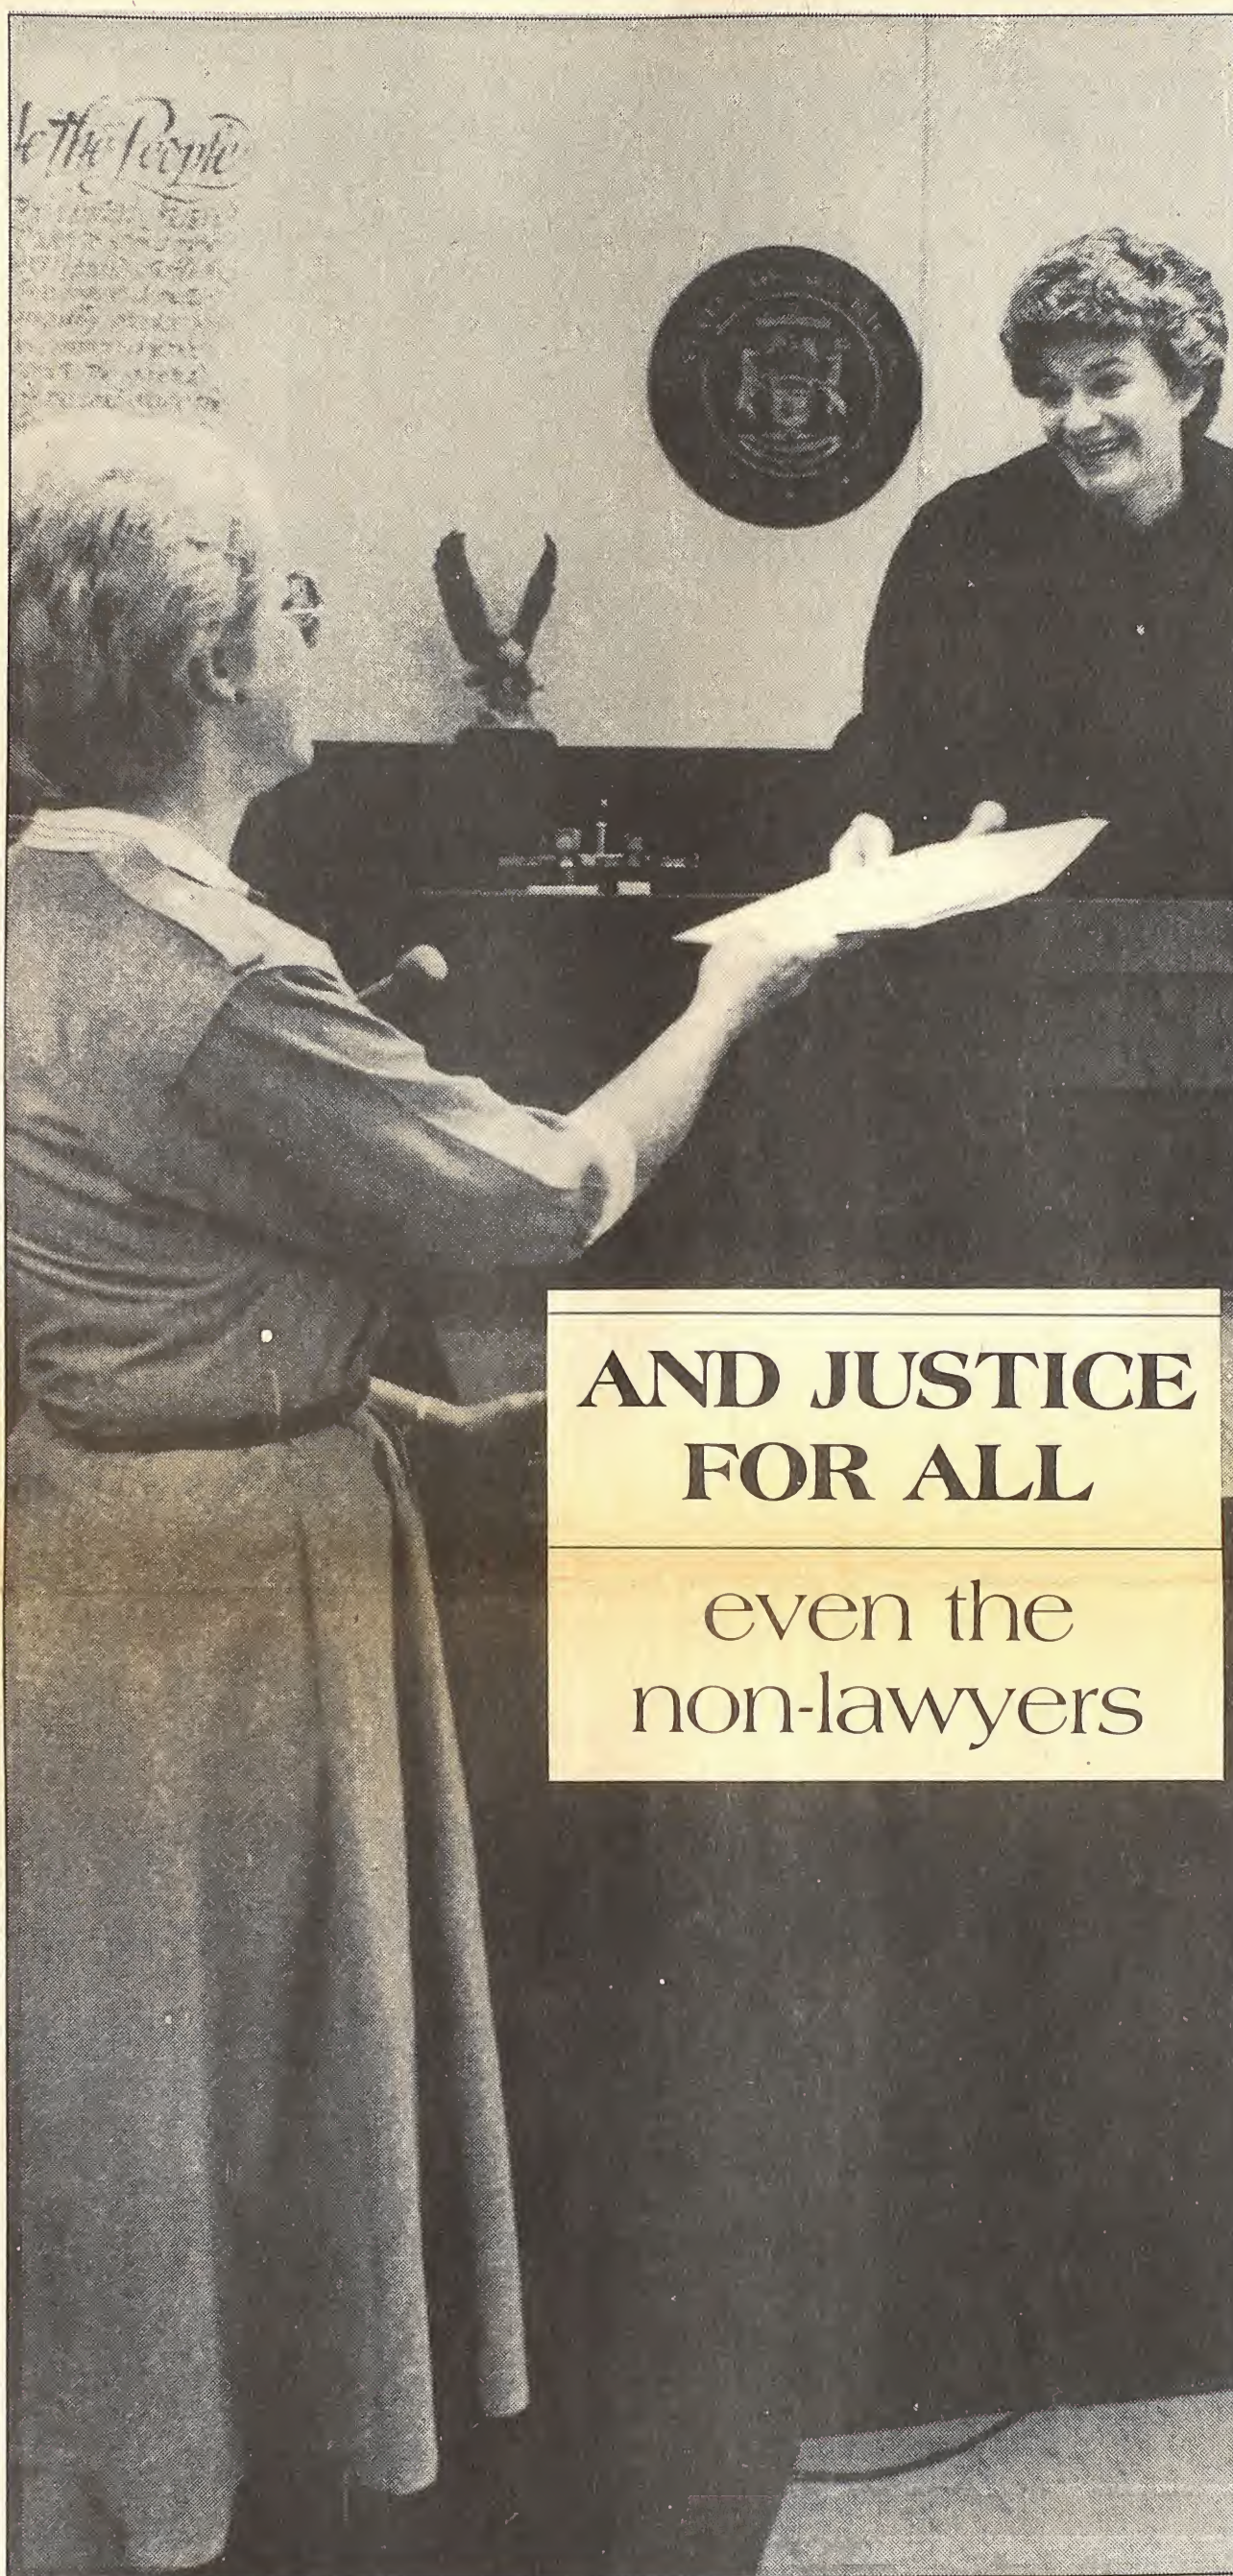

But no two days - whatever position of the moon - are alike in court, according to Barbara Killingbeck, court administrator for the 29th District Court in Wayne.

"If anything criminal happens in the city of Wayne, it happens here," she said. "There are two sides to the courts, civil and criminal. All persons who violate a state statute are seen in the criminal side of the court. All small claims up to $1,500 and landlord/tenant issues are decided here. The judge can award claims up to $10,000. If the amount would be more, the case would be decided in circuit court."

Different cases are scheduled each day in the district court. And each district court has a preplanned schedule, Killingbeck said. The 29th District Court usually sets Monday and Friday for both bench and jury civil trials.

On Tuesday, victims of misdemeanors receive mandatory arraignments on charges such as drunk driving and operating without a license. Landlord/tenant cases are scheduled in the morning, and the pre-trials for general civil cases are reviewed in the afternoon.

AND JUSTICE FOR ALL

even the non-lawyers

Small claims court is not so glamorous

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Although local district court officials believe the public has had "a good record of success" in small claims court, not everyone is satisfied with his experiences with the court.

Van Buren Township resident Richard Mandeville filed a claim in the small claims division of the 34th District Court in Romulus about two months ago. Although he received a $725 judgment against the defendant and has filed a garnishment to acquire the money, Mandeville said he has received only $34 so far. He claims to have spent several hundred dollars - an amount he expects to exceed the judgment - in attorney costs and various fees.

Part of his frustration, he said, is that he has had a laryngectomy and has some problem in communicating with court workers. He believes he has spent an excessive amount of time standing in line at the court offices and has not received adequate assistance when filing his claim and garnishment forms.

Mandeville required the assistance of an attorney to complete some documents which necessitated an extra expense for him in addition to the court fees, he said.

Frustrated with the delay in the garnishment process, Mandeville said he plans to file a suit against the district court for the sum owed to him.

Still, court officials believe that most individuals have success in small claims court. The most important point, they say, is to determine the collectibility of the party being sued when filing a lawsuit. If the party being sued is not collectible - unemployed or not at a permanent address - obtaining a judgment will not guarantee that the plaintiff will be able to collect.

Clerks may answer questions about the filling out of forms, but they are not permitted to dispense legal advice. Most courts have printed instructions that "walk through" an individual when he fills out the form.

Any claim for $1,500 or less may be brought into the small claims court in the community where the action happened or where the defendant resides. No attorneys are permitted in the court, there are no appeals and no jury trials. Prior to the hearing, either party may remove the case to the general civil court docket where attorneys, jury trials and appeals are permitted.

The cost to file is $10 for claims up to $600 and $20 for claims of more than that amount. After the claim is filed, the clerk will give the in-

'Justice for all' has literal meaning

The courts have long been left to the professionals - the lawyers and law school graduates. Fifty years ago, the "average citizen" would never have thought of pushing his own case through the criminal justice system.

But television dramas such as The People's Court and Night Court have brought the law of the land into the family room. Today, all citizens may at times contemplate taking the law into their hands by suing their fellow man. Why not? It's the American way.

This week we examine the local courts and the small claims courts and detail just how difficult it really is to win have your day in court.

dividual who files (the plaintiff) a hearing date and the person being sued (the defendant) will be notified either by certified mail or in person.

The fee for notification by certified mail is $3 per defendant and the personal service fee is $10 per defendant plus 30 cents a mile for the round-trip.

Prior to the trial, the plaintiff may gather witnesses or evidence to support his claim. A witness is paid $6 per half day or $12 per full day, plus 10 cents per mile.

On the hearing day, the plaintiff and defendant will be called upon by the judge to state their claims. Then witnesses, if any, will be asked to state their knowledge of the claim. The judge will then make a decision. In the event that the plaintiff fails to appear, the claim will be dismissed. On the other hand, if the defendant fails to appear, the judge may enter a default judgment in the plaintiff's favor.

Obtaining the judgment, does not automatically mean that the plaintiff will receive the amount of the claim. It is at this point, court officials said, that most of the confusion about the small claims court system occurs.

For a filing fee of $5 and service fee, the plaintiff may subpoena the defendant into court to disclose their assets through the discovery method. An execution - order commanding the court officer to seize and sell personal property to fulfill the judgment - also may be filed for a $5 fee and service fee. If the plaintiff knows where the defendant works or banks, he can file a garnishment to acquire a portion of the money he is owed.

In the fast-paced, "do-it-yourself" world we now live in, people often forget that they can also be their own lawyers - in certain cases.

One Local lawyer asks that we note the "certain cases" aspect of that statement.

Cases which do not involve a great deal of complications usually are best left to the "layman lawyer," according to William K. Necker, a Wayne attorney. Necker also recommends that those people who have a working knowledge of certain types of legislation and aspects of the judicial system likewise try their hand at practicing law - and in the long run save hundreds of dollars in legal fees.

William Necker

Necker has been turning average citizens into part-time lawyers for several years through the adult education program of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools. He teaches an evening consumer law course each fall at John Glenn High School. It is there that the longtime attorney tried to make others aware of the basics of his profession.

"Half of the battle is getting people informed about their rights and their obligations. I see a lot of cases where a person does not know a lot about the laws before going into litigation. So, if someone were to try to represent himself in a court case, I'd say that he had best be up on current laws pertaining to the case. Being informed is really a key issue," Necker explained.

Although he supports a citizens' form of law, Necker also recommends that anyone wishing to represent himself in a trial consult an attorney to weigh the pros and cons, prior to beginning the case.

"Find out right away if you can go the duration alone," said Necker. "There may be loopholes which a client may not be able to foresee. (Non-lawyers) could become entangled in a lot of excess legalities. A trained attorney, however, knows how to look into all of the angles."

Necker said that attorneys will, in most cases, be honest with clients and inform them of their legal options without trying to simply make money by giving the advice.

"Ours is a business built on trust. Most of the people that I know are not going to see how much money they can get from a potential client. They'll tell them if, in fact, they can go to

Judges urge caution in starting false claims

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

From one judge's viewpoint, people can often be successful in representing themselves in a court case. However, being prepared should always be the watchword.

Judge Carolyn Archbold, of the 29th District Court in Wayne, said that some of the best arguments she has ever heard were during cases in which people represented themselves legally.

Carolyn Archbold

Archbold, who said she for the most part deals in cases concerning small claims suits, admitted that in small claims court, it is a more relaxed setting when people represent themselves.

But in some instances in which a trial results, Archbold said she has also seen the trials end in disaster.

"It all depends on the complexity of the case," Archbold said. "I have seen people go to trial and represent themselves and do a very good job defending themselves and arguing their cases. For some of them, I think they may have missed their true calling in life. But there were some factors which I think may have contributed to their success."

These factors, the judge said, include the fact that successful layman lawyers are by nature not uncomfortable speaking in public, and they have little difficulty expressing their thoughts. Moreover, most do-it-yourself lawyers also possess a thorough knowledge of the law and judicial process, she continued, and keep their emotions out of their arguments.

"When you're personally involved with the case, you may not be able to always remain level-headed and rational about the situation. Your emotions can tend to get in the way," Archbold explained. "I have seen cases where lawyers had to go on trial for some reason or another, and I've seen them even get so emotionally involved that they ended up losing the case."

"So, sometimes it's better to go ahead and hire someone who will be able to rationalize and talk out the case rather than someone who falls apart over it because it is himself that he is trying to defend."

court unrepresented and still win their case or if they are going to really need someone there to speak on their behalf. I have even told clients of mine that they don't have a prayer of winning, say in misdemeanor ticket cases. I'll tell them that right off," Necker said. "Rather than have them spending all of the money in legal fees, why not just go on and pay the ticket, which is most of the time a considerably lesser amount of money." Citizen lawyers with the best track record in winning cases, according to Necker, deal with simple divorces, landlord/tenant disputes, misdemeanor and traffic infractions of the law and, in some cases, criminal arraignments. But the track record doesn't guarantee success, Necker continued. "Cases where a person represents himself against an experienced lawyer almost always end in that person losing his or her case. There's just too much edge that a lawyer has over a person not entirely familiar with the system," Necker said. "Representing yourself can save you a great deal of money. But you must know what you're doing and how deep you're getting in. It can work. Then again, it can also be to your disadvantage. The key thing to always remember is to talk to a lawyer first."

All civil cases have the opportunity for a pre-trial where the defendant can plead guilty or not guilty. If he pleads not guilty, a trial date is set. If there is any possibility of a settlement, it takes place at this point, the court official said. Wednesday is the state-set day when all people charged with a felony and violation of a state statute are scheduled to appear in the district courts. This is the only day the Wayne County prosecutor is in attendance, Killingbeck said. If a state trooper or Wayne County Sheriff issue any citations, this is their day in court. Thursday is ordinance day, and any person cited for violating a city law is dealt with by the court. "The district court judge only has the jurisdiction to place someone in jail for a period of up to one year. On felony matters, if the judge feels there is probable cause to believe a crime has been committed, the suspect is bound over to circuit court," said Killingbeck. Killingbeck noted that the local caseload has been declining, partly as a result of "not as many police officers on the road." "I can see the difference. Less tickets are issued, the less work for us. And that means less revenue for the courts," Killingbeck explained.

Berries, berries, berries

just desserts

sue willert

One of my infrequent trips to the grocery store this week reminded me of one of my most favorite things. Strolling through the produce department, I was nearly overcome with the smell of fresh, sweet strawberries. And parked right next to these huge beauties were small pints of raspberries...another lifetime passion of mine.

While it might be the end of the season, these lovely gifts of nature are still to be had and enjoyed. Here are two of my oldest, and most favorite recipes using the fruits and cream, and sugar and...well, just about anything else fattening. These are superb, and a bit different from the usual manner in which berries are served. Enjoy.

STRAWBERRY ROLL

Cake:
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
5 tablespoons water
1 scant cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch salt

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Beat eggs well, add sugar, and beat until creamy. Add water and beat about 15 minutes. Combine flour with baking powder and add to batter with vanilla and salt. Beat until smooth. Spread dough on cookie sheet 15 by 10 by 2 which has been covered with heavy brown paper which has been buttered. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes. Invert the hot cake on a tea towel that has been heavily sprinkled with powdered (confectioners) sugar. Cut off crisp edges and roll up into jelly roll while still hot. Chill.

Filling:
2 cups heavy cream whipped with sugar to taste
1 pint strawberries, washed, hulled and sliced
Confectioner's sugar

To fill, unroll the cake gently and spread with whipped cream. Cover with sliced strawberries, reroll and dust with confectioner's sugar. Serve in slices, cold.

RASPBERRY CREAM CAKE

1 stick butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
2/3 cup milk
25 large honey graham crackers, crushed (2 cups)
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 8-ounce jar black raspberry jam
2 cups heavy cream, whipped with sugar to taste

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Butter two 8-inch cake pans.

In an electric mixer, combine the butter and sugar and blend well. Beat the egg yolks and then add with the milk, and salt and beat thoroughly. Combine the graham cracker crumbs with the baking powder and add to the butter mixture. Add half cup of chopped pecans and vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff, and add. Divide the mixture between the two buttered pans and bake in preheated oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool and remove from pans.

Spread the raspberry jam on the bottom layer, top with whipped cream and then spread the top cake layer with jam and cover top and sides with sweetened whipped cream. Garnish with reserved half cup pecans. Refrigerate until serving.

Career woman learns high-tech benefits

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Joan Martin of Canton has no time to slave over a hot stove all day, preparing dinner for the members of her family, who demand only the finest in dinner-time cuisine. She is a full-time career woman.

But not to fear, Martin has discovered the secret of the microwave—the high-tech device which allows this homemaker/career woman to "make her cake and eat it too."

"I have to use the microwave. I'm busy with my family. I have two daughters and two grandchildren. And I'm always entertaining," she said. "Let's face it, people like to come to my house to eat. What can I say?"

Martin bought her microwave only 10 years ago, although the device has been on the market since the mid-1960s. A staunch supporter, promoter and worker at Eastern Seals of Detroit and local Elks chapter, Martin said she is always busy, combining her professional career with family.

Because of this, she doesn't just use the household microwave to save time. Martin depends on it. So much so, she said, that she has developed several fine-tuned recipes after years of trials and errors.

In the process, however, she has discovered a few "microwave secrets." These include:

- Warm lemons, limes, oranges or grapefruit on high 15 seconds to release more juice and flavor. Let them stand three minutes before squeezing.

- To peel fresh peaches or tomatoes easily, heat on high for 10 to 20 seconds, according to size and quality. Let stand before peeling.

- To prepare hot, steamed napkins to use as finger towels, immerse napkins in a water and lemon juice solution. Wring out, fold and heat on microwave high for one minute or until hot. A hot compress can be prepared the same way.

- To crisp crackers or potato chips, place on paper towel and microwave on high 45 seconds to one minute.

- To separate cold bacon slices easily, microwave the package on high 15 to 20 seconds. Let stand three to five minutes.

- Refrigerate leftover coffee. Microwave one cup at a time on high, one to two minutes.

- If everyone is not home in time for dinner, arrange individual servings on dinner plates, cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate. When they get home, all they have to do is microwave the plate on high one and one-quarter to two minutes, remove plastic wrap and enjoy:

- Food in the microwave cooks from the inside out. In fact, food still cooks for at least two more minutes after it is taken out of the microwave; and

- Don't boil water in the microwave. Even with high technology, some things are better left to the old-fashioned methods, Martin said.

Here are a few of Martin's time-tested, microwave secret recipes.

ORIENTAL BEEF

2 pounds sirloin steak
1/2 pound fresh mushrooms
1 cup chopped onions
2 cups bias-cut celery
1 8-ounce can water chestnuts, drained and sliced
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 cup soy sauce
1 6-ounce package frozen peas

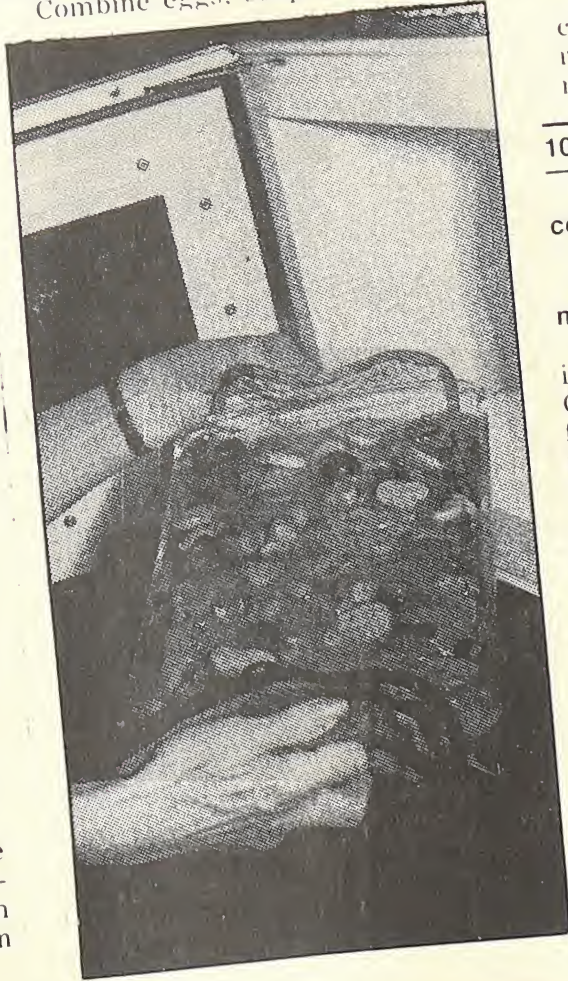

Cut steak into thin strips. Slice mushrooms. Place all ingredients, cornstarch, soy sauce and pea pods, in 3-quart glass casserole.

Combine cornstarch and soy sauce in small jar with lid. Shake until smooth. Stir into meat mixture. Cover with glass lid or wax paper.

Microwave 15 minutes on medium high (roast). Stir with wooden spoon, add frozen pea pods. Recover and continue cooking 5 to 10 minutes on medium high (roast), or until meat is fork-tender. Stir to combine pea pods. Let stand covered five minutes before servings. Makes four servings.

SEAFOOD SCRAMBLED EGGS

8 eggs
1 can condensed cream of shrimp soup
1 8 teaspoon salt
1 4 teaspoon salt
1 8 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1 4-ounce can mushrooms, stems and pieces drained
2 green onions, finely sliced (include tops)
Combine eggs, soup and seasonings in 1 1/2-inch deep glass casserole dish. Beat well with whisk. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover with glass lid. Microwave for 7 minutes on medium high. Stir with fork, recover and continue cooking 5 to 7 minutes on medium high or until mixture is liquid only in the center. Stir gently with fork to scramble and cook excess liquid. Let stand covered for three minutes before serving. Serve with toasted English muffins. (Butter muffins and sprinkle with parmesan cheese.) Serves four.

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

6 chicken breasts or 2 1/2 to 3 pounds quartered frying chicken
2 medium onions, sliced thin and separated
1 medium green pepper, cut into strips
1 can (28 ounces) whole tomatoes or 1 can stewed tomatoes
1 garlic bud chopped fine

MUSHROOM SAUCE:

2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 4 cup water
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cans (4 ounces each) mushrooms, stems and pieces, drained

15 black olives sliced in half

Arrange chicken pieces skin-side-up, thick edges toward outside in 12-by-7-inch glass baking dish. Place onion, green pepper, garlic and tomatoes with juice (cut tomatoes in half) over chicken. Sprinkle with pepper, cover with wax paper.

Microwave on high (about 180 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes. Drain liquid into glass bowl. Set chicken dish aside.

Combine all ingredients, except mushrooms, olives and broth. In 4-cup glass measure, beat with whisk until smooth. Beat in reserved broth. Microwave 2 to 3 minutes on high. Beat. Add mushrooms, olives and continue cooking two to five minutes on medium high or until thickened. Stir well, remove from microwave and pour over chicken. Cover dish with wax paper and put into microwave 4 minutes on high.

Makes six servings. Serve over cooked egg noodles. Cook noodles on regular stove—takes too long in microwave.

10-MINUTE CHUNKY APPLESAUCE

6 cooking apples, peeled and cored
1/3 cup sugar
ground nutmeg or ground cinnamon, if desired

Cut apples into small chunks. Put into 2-quart glass casserole dish. Cover with wax paper. Cook on high for 8 minutes, stirring several times with wooden spoon. Stir in sugar. Cook on high 2 minutes. Let stand covered 5 minutes. Cool on rack. Sprinkle with nutmeg or cinnamon. Yields 2 cups.

QUICK HOT FUDGE SAUCE

1/3 cup milk
1 6-ounce package semisweet chocolate pieces
In a 4-cup measure, combine milk and chocolate pieces. Heat on high 2 to 3 minutes. Stir. Makes about 1 cup.

Church remodeling spurs new excitement

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

The large, old churches of days gone by are increasingly disappearing from the land. Those structures are being replaced by a more modern place to worship, complete with American flair and architecture.

This disappearance isn't to be frowned upon, however. The modern-day church has a place and a purpose in the worship style of the 1980s, according to the Rev. John O'Callahan of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Wayne, one church to recently undergo a modernistic facelift.

Members of St. Mary's this year will celebrate the 125-year anniversary of the church. Today, much of the original ornate, cathedral-like look present when the church was built is still in place. But those features must now share a spot with a few new characteristics.

O'Callahan explained that the church was completely renovated in 1981, following years of planning. The renovation was the result of a twofold church goal, the minister said.

"Because it is an old church, a lot of areas needed repair. Things like electrical problems and work that needed to be done on the pipings and so on," O'Callahan said. "And while we were at it, we wanted to change some areas to alleviate certain problems that we had been experiencing in years past."

Perhaps the biggest change at St. Mary's, O'Callahan said, was the elimination of the church pews. Parishioners now have chairs for worshipping, and they have no kneelers on the floor.

O'Callahan said the move was an attempt to allow parishioners to be more at ease in their surroundings, although some of the more traditional members weren't quick to accept the idea.

"Some of the people were so upset that they left our church to go to one with pews. But everyone else is very happy with the church," O'Callahan explained.

Another change was the installation of a new, simple-looking altar situated close to the people. The idea here, the minister said, is to get the people closer to their God.

"The older, basilica-type churches would always have these long aislesways, and the altar would seem so far away and distant. So, how can a person have a personal relationship with God when God seems to be so far away?" said O'Callahan. "This way, the seats are set up so (people) are able to see the altar and are closer to it physically." Other renovations at the church included a ramp for the handicapped and a change in the church entrance. Formerly, parishioners entered the church on Michigan Avenue. Now the main front door is on Third Street, located just west of the church building.

But not all churches are old enough to undergo huge renovations. Many new churches are built with the 1980s style of architecture right from the start.

Gene Kijek, the pastoral associate at St. John Neuman Catholic Church in Canton, said that his church, built nine years ago, is typical of modern-day style of churches.

"The churches being built today are no longer those castle-like churches that were built long ago. When churches were built many years ago, a lot of the architecture ideas were borrowed from our ancestors of European descent. Now, we have very accomplished American architects who have worked to develop their own styles of design," Kijek said. "A main factor (in church building today) is the fact that a lot more energy is needed for those older churches with the high ceilings. It takes a lot more energy to heat those churches and to light them up. All of these factors are taken into consideration now."

And, Kijek said, the "new" look of the churches is here to stay.

"I don't think that we'll ever see those old, cathedral-type churches being built anymore. It would take millions of dollars to try to reproduce the work that went into those churches, no matter how beautiful they may look."

Father John O'Callaghan

'We'll be glad to see you soon'

from the pulpit

I would like to introduce you to Westland full Gospel Church. We are very excited about what God is doing through His Holy Spirit in our church. We have presently about 600 to 700 people that attend our services regularly. We begin our week with an 8 a.m. service on Sunday. Following, we have Christian education classes for all ages. These classes meet the needs of people in their every-day life. The Bible is taught and preached in every one of our programs.

We also have a second worship service at 11. Sunday service is filled with excitement. Singing, testimonies, prayer and the word is what you will experience. There are many programs during the week for the whole family. Some of special interest are our missionette and Royal Ranger programs on Thursday nights at 7. These are kids' clubs where children do special activities, such as earn badges and awards for display on their uniforms, camping and outings of all kinds-all with close adherence to Biblical principles and Godly morality. On Fridays we also have a very successful abuse ministry called Alcoholics for Christ. We see people being set free from alcohol and drugs and turned to depend on God and His church. There are many today who are trying to hide from reality with drugs and alcohol. Our group will help you deal with reality, God's way. With Jesus you cannot only face life but enjoy living. There really is something for the whole family. Our church believes in ministry to the family unit. Families in our country are in trouble today. God has the answers to repair broken homes and strengthen those that are weak. The answer to our family problems does not lie in the humanistic teaching of our day. Mankind has never been able to find the answers in themselves. We need to turn back to the Bible and to the author of the Bible-God. Marriage was not created in the mind of men, but in the heart of God. In our teaching, we will bring out the principles from God's word that are the building blocks for a fulfilling marriage. Many today have lost the desire to go to church. I really don't blame them. Many churches today are dry and lifeless and have nothing to offer but meaningless ritual. Here at Westland Full Gospel, we are witnessing exciting services and many lives being changed for the better. Religion will not change your life, but a relationship with Jesus can. God is not a spiritual being a million miles away who is not interested in our lives. The Bible says in Hohn, that The Father is seeking those who will worship Him in spirit and in truth.

From the pulpit this week was written by Michael Enerson, Westland Full Gospel Church.

Show time

To the Robichaud - Rouge victor may go the conference grid crown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It's show time for Robichaud and River Rouge, the defending Suburban Athletic Conference football champs. The two undefeated SAC powers have a date to meet 3:30 p.m. Friday on the Rouge gridiron. And both teams are ready for the showdown, according to Robichaud coach Bob Yauch. "We're both undefeated and have momentum going into this game," said Yauch after his Bulldogs blasted Oak Park 40-6 Friday for their third consecutive and second straight SAC victory. "Rouge is a power team with an explosive tailback that has to be contained in order for us to win." Yauch was referring to Donald Jones who is being groomed as a "Big 10" Conference running back. There is also tight end Bobby Hill, who has been unstoppable thus far this season.

Vikings blow lead, chance of beating Jackson Northwest

With victory in their clutches, Inkster let Jackson Northwest escape Friday evening. Coach Alonzo Glaze and his Vikings built up a 14-0 first quarter lead before the defense fell apart and dropped a 39-14 non-conference decision to their hosts. It was Inkster's third successive defeat after winning its season opener against East Catholic, 12-8.

After playing an excellent first half, our kids decided it was all over. They just quit playing.

— Alonzo Glaze
Inkster coach

"We just gave up after playing an excellent first quarter," said Glaze who takes his small cadre of gridders up against Highland Park this week. "Our problem is a problem of tradition. We just haven't been able to build a winning tradition in football, and we are hoping to do this with this bunch of players."

Lorenzo Terrell, the Vikings' sparkplug, got his team on the scoreboard early in the first period when he dashed 48 yards into the enemy end zone. He started the TD run by heading off tackle, then burst to the outside and outran the defense thanks to some exceptional blocking by Darnel Childress, Lafayette Upshaw and James Thomas.

Terrell also contributed the two-point conversion and, with less than five minutes expired, the Vikings had an 8-0 lead.

Inkster defense chipped in the next TD as Thomas picked off a pass and ran it back 60 yards for the six-pointer.

But, suddenly the Vikings quit. Northwest struck for three second quarter scores and, before the intermission, had taken command 21-14. The hosts added 10 more insurance points in the third period and wrapped it up with seven points in the finale.

A questionable pass interference call apparently took the wind from the Viking sails. Earl Casey went up with a Northwest receiver for the ball, and the officials decided that the Inkster safety interfered with the catch. The ensuing penalty kept a Jackson drive alive.

"I believe that controversial call broke our momentum," said Glaze. "We never actually recovered after that."

Casey also had problems at the offensive throttle as he managed to connect on only three of 13 passes for 21 yards. But, if Glaze was critical of his offense after the first quarter, he lauded the defense, particularly the efforts turned in by linebacker Thomas, who had 10 tackles; Childress, who had eight tackles and three assists and Terrell, at safety, who was credited with seven tackles.

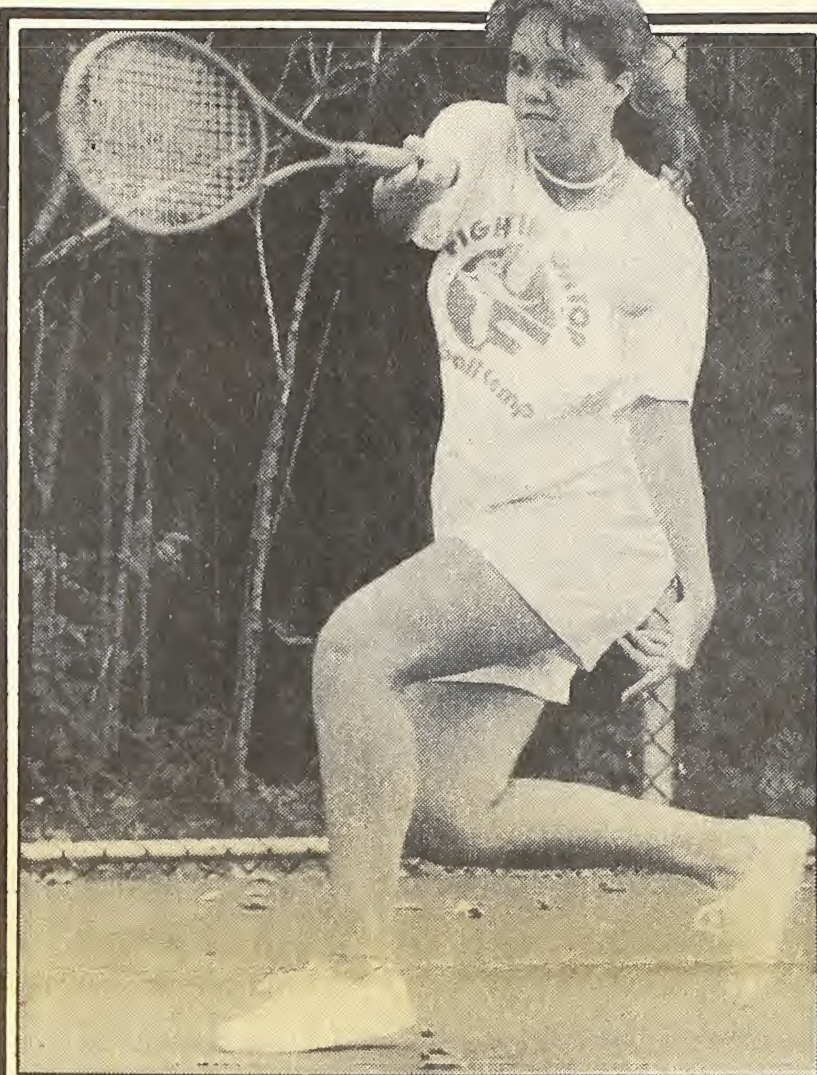

Highland Park invades Inkster at 4 p.m. Friday, and Glover sees the match up as a 'duel between two teams hungry for a conference victory.'

"We haven't had the opportunity to see them this year," Glaze said about the Parkers. "Obviously they are also having problems. They haven't won this year, so it's a case of which team is hungrier for victory."

We hold our destiny in our hands. If we want the title, we're going to have to go over there and show them.

— Bob Yauch
Robichaud coach

"This is our first big test of the season, and the winner obviously will have the edge in the title race," Yauch noted. "Destiny is in our hands. If we want the championship, this is the time to show it." Robichaud wasted little time with Oak Park as freshman tailback Tyrone Wheatley again enjoyed a superlative afternoon. Wheatley rushed for 101 yards on 11 carries including two touchdowns and three 2-point conversions. His four-game totals are an impressive 543 yards rushing in 42 carries and 10 touchdowns. The 185-pound, 6-1 running back could break every offensive record in Robichaud's books before he ends his prep career if he continues at this rate.

Kelly Luman, Belleville's number one singles, broke the ice

Belleville's Luman nets a big victory

It may not be noteworthy for any other team, but, for Belleville, a school without a tennis program for the past four decades, one victory is news.

Belleville is back on the courts and in the Wolverine 'A' Conference this season. Moreover, Coach Susan McCarney is pleased at her team's progress.

"Yes, we are losing, but we are improving with each meet," she said.

Belleville dropped a 6-1 decision to Fordson, a Wolverine 'A' Conference rival and also suffered a 6-1 setback at the hands of Southgate Anderson. In both contests, the Tigers averted the shut-out thanks to Kelly Luman, their number one singles.

Luman rallied from a 6-3 first set loss to Fordson's Kim Wohlfeil to post a 6-2, 6-2 victory over her rival, thus becoming the first Belleville netter to win a match in over 40 years.

She came back on Wednesday to jolt Southgate's Franci Cashmer for her second

Now, let's go back to the game. Robichaud struck early. Wheatley scampered 56 yards on a sweep the first play from scrimmage to score his first touchdown of the afternoon. He then scored the two-point conversion and, with less than two minutes elapsed into the game, the Bulldogs were up by eight.

Oak Park buckled down and held until midway in the second period when Robichaud fullback Carl Brown capped a 45-yard sustained drive with a two-yard TD plunge. That score was set up by quarterback Eric Thomas's 25-yard pass to slotback Gary Johnson. The conversion failed.

And, with 19 seconds remaining in the half, Thomas clicked with his first career touchdown pass, teaming with Tyji Armstrong on a 41-yard strike to the tight end. Wheatley then scored the two-pointer and the Bulldogs went into the locker room with a 22-0 lead.

The defense got into the scoring act early in the third period as

Is Belleville rule over Wolverine 'A' swim league ending

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Is the Belleville High era of domination of the Wolverine 'A' Conference girls' swim league coming to an end? It could be.

Although Belleville has won two of its first three starts, first-year coach Greg Cooper feels that his Tigers will have to mature fast in order to successfully defend their title.

Cooper, a former All-Area swimmer from Belleville High who replaced his former coach Sam Vicchy as the head coach, sees Monroe and Wayne Memorial as possible heir-apparents to the throne.

"When we had only 13 girls show up the first week for practice I was a bit pessimistic about our chances," Cooper said. "We now have 17, and they form a strong nucleus. However, Trenton has just about everyone returning and Monroe and Wayne are also tough. It's going to be an interesting season."

Since its inception four years ago, the Wolverine 'A' has known only one champ - Belleville High. An era may be coming to an end.

Cooper, who graduated from Belleville in 1980, attended the University of Wyoming for one year, then transferred to Eastern Michigan University where he is majoring in the sciences and education.

The Tigers had to struggle to pull out a close 89-80 victory over Fordson in their first defense of the title. It went right down to the last event, the 400-yard freestyle relay. The Tigers, with a lineup of Melanie Merritt, Rachel Snure, Jeannie Montie and Jennifer Owsley turned in the winning time of 4:19.07.

"Fordson had to win the event and also place third with their second team in order for them to beat us. Fortunately for us that didn't happen," Cooper said.

Belleville received a superlative performance from Merritt, who also won the 200-yard freestyle (2:15.18) and the 500-yard freestyle event (6:06.9). Teammate Montie also was a double winner, touching in first in the 50-yard freestyle in 28:09 while coasting to a victory in the 100-yard freestyle in 1:00.2.

Since its inception four years ago, the Wolverine 'A' Conference swim world has only known one champ - Belleville.

Owsley put the 100-yard butterfly into the Tiger column with a 1:12.2 effort, then provided the 1-2 Belleville punch in the 100-yard breaststroke when she followed Christie Sikes to the wall in that event. Sikes' winning time was 1:13.39.

Belleville's only other victory came on the diving boards where Holly Drucker piled up 173.55 points.

Belleville launched the season against non-conference rival, Ypsilanti Lincoln, winning by 13 points, 91-77. However, the next time out they encountered a tough Westland John Glenn club which handed the Tigers their first setback, 86-73. The Westlanders swept 10 of 11 events.

Belleville has another tough test in the league Thursday night when Trenton comes to town. The swimming begins at 7 p.m.

Huron cage title express picks up momentum

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

New Boston Huron's title express picked up momentum last week as Coach Bill Harrison's undefeated Chiefs breezed past Carlson 85-38 last Tuesday, then rolled over Airport 68-49 on Thursday for their sixth consecutive basketball victory.

"The kids continue to impress," said Harrison, "but we really haven't been tested. And this season is very young. Each game brings a new challenge, and we know that they will be all gunning for us because we are the leaders."

Behind Laurie LaBeau's career-high 29 points, Huron jumped out to a 30-13 lead in the first period against Carlson and never looked back. The Chiefs increased their advantage to 55-24 at half time, then outscored their conference rivals 19-9 and 11-5 in the final two periods as Harrison gave his bench plenty of playing time.

LaBeau came within reach of Kathy Bartz's 1981 record of 32 points. She sank 13 field goals, made three of four from the free throw line and had 10 assists plus seven steals. Teammate Tracie Keith helped out with 24 points, also a career high. She pumped in four three-pointers. Laurie Haener also finished in double figures. She had 11.

Although Airport stayed within range, Huron led all the way in its 68-49 triumph. LaBeau again was fantastic as he drilled in 27 points, Keith added 17 with five of those being three-pointers and Haener would up with 12.

After playing Riverview last night, the Huron express heads for Flat Rock tomorrow.

In the meantime, Romulus staged a late rally that fell short against Milan as Coach Ron Bayes's Eagles suffered a 28-26 setback. Laurie Berlenn led the surge, scoring six of her team high 13 points in the final period. The Eagles were off target most of the evening as they hit on a dismal nine of 50 shots from the floor.

On Thursday, Romulus matched Mason in the field, but the Erie quintet managed to hit on 15 of 22 from the free throw line to sew up a 46-27 non-league decision. Berlenn again led her team. She had 13 points plus 12 rebounds as the Eagles' record dipped to 1-3 on the season.

line in 22:03, while teammate Ladonne Swick was fifth (23:52). Huron also counted the performances of Tracy Nagy (24:18) and Carrie Madej (24:43) who finished sixth and seventh place, respectively.

"We are off to our best season since I've been here," noted Okler, who has been cross country coach for the past six years. "But we have Carlson and Airport ahead of us and they are teams to be wary of."

In the chase for the title a year ago, the Chiefs fell short, finishing second to Grosse Ile.

"There are a lot of teams that can do it this year," he said.

Chiefs are setting pace in cross country

Off to their best start in six years, New Boston Huron hurriers have set a torrid pace in the conference. Coach Jeff Okler's hurriers spotted Monroe Catholic Central first place but the Chiefs took the meet, 23-36, on the home course at Willow Metro Park.

Monroe's Amy Kerchinsky rallied in the final mile to overtake Huron's pacesetter, Kim Scailei, to claim first place. Kerchinsky was clocked in 21:24 for the three-miles, while Scailei turned in the second best time of 21:39.

The Chiefs also had the third best runner in the field in freshman Lindsey Wendel who crossed the finish linebacker Toby Griffin was credited with a safety after nailing the Oak Park QB in the end zone. A few minutes later, Wheatley scooped up an Oak Park fumble and raced 47 yards into the end zone, then scored the two-point conversion, and Robichaud had an insurmountable 32-0 advantage. After Oak Park scored their first and only TD, the Bulldogs wrapped up the victory with Carl Brown's seven-yard TD jaunt, culminating a midfield drive. A Thomas-to-Armstrong toss accounted for the conversion.

"I was definitely pleased with the overall performance of our team," Yauck said. "After losing that first one, these kids have settled down and played ball the way our staff knew they could."

Robichaud lost its opener to non-conference rival, Birmingham Country Day, 29-20, the defending Class C state champ, then bounced back on subsequent Fridays to trounce Hamtramck St. Florian, 34-0, then shut out Ecorse 52-0 before destroying Oak Park.

victory on sets of 6-3, 6-4.

However, a traditionally strong Wayne wiped the Tigers out 7-0 on Friday as Kelly bowed 6-2, 6-1 to Dee Dee Wilson; in the number two singles, Lena Widener fell to Rocky Gorshek by two 6-0 decisions; and Belleville's number three singles Krista Van Allen was no match for Jennifer Bason, who was in control, 6-1, 6-1. Kelly Robinson lost to the Wayne number four stick, Tracy Palmer, 6-1, 6-1.

Belleville's doubles teams also were outclassed as Britany Hall and teammate Diane Wisniewski came up on the short end of a 6-0 and 7-5 decision to Kobrea and Moore; Angela Radisovich and Susan Karoly were defeated 6-1, 6-3 by Harvey and Freeburn.

Tigers see Anderson on as cure to their ailment

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

This is it for Belleville High. With four losses pinned to their record, Coach Dave McCarney and his Tigers will have a realistic chance of snapping out of their doldrums Friday night when winless Southgate Anderson pays them a visit.

"They are apparently in the same shoes that we are in," said McCarney after the Tigers lost a 27-0 decision to Wolverine 'A' Conference rival, Monroe, Friday night. "They are a young and inexperienced team. Moreover, we are both winless and looking for that first victory."

They are apparently in the same shoes that we are in. They are a young and inexperienced team.

— Dave McCarney
Belleville coach

To win, McCarney feels that the Tigers will have to stop Southgate quarterback Mike Ludtke, who likes to go to the air. "We have to stop their passing game, so our secondary is going to be tested a lot."

Despite the heroics of J.P. Fallen, who rushed for 118 yards on 28 carries, Belleville couldn't break into the scoring zone against Monroe. Monroe scored a six-pointer in the first quarter, added 14-points in the next to pile up a 20-0 half time edge before scoring their final TD in the last quarter.

Belleville had but couldn't cash in on several opportunities to get on the scoreboard.

On their second drive Fallen, called upon to carry the ball six of eight plays, moved the Tigers to the Monroe 31 before they yield the ball on downs.

After an exchange of punts, Belleville came back with Fallen again. He was given the ball 10 times in a drive that took the Tigers to the 15 where a penalty destroyed their opportunities.

"We managed to move the ball against them," noted McCarney. "Unfortunately, we were never able to come up with the big play."

Monroe put together a nine-play, 60-yard drive that was capped by quarterback Willie Jones going in for the score from six-yards out. The Trojans also came back and scored early in the second period when they took over deep in Tiger territory after Scott Janek's punt was partially blocked.

Romulus breaks victory barrier

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

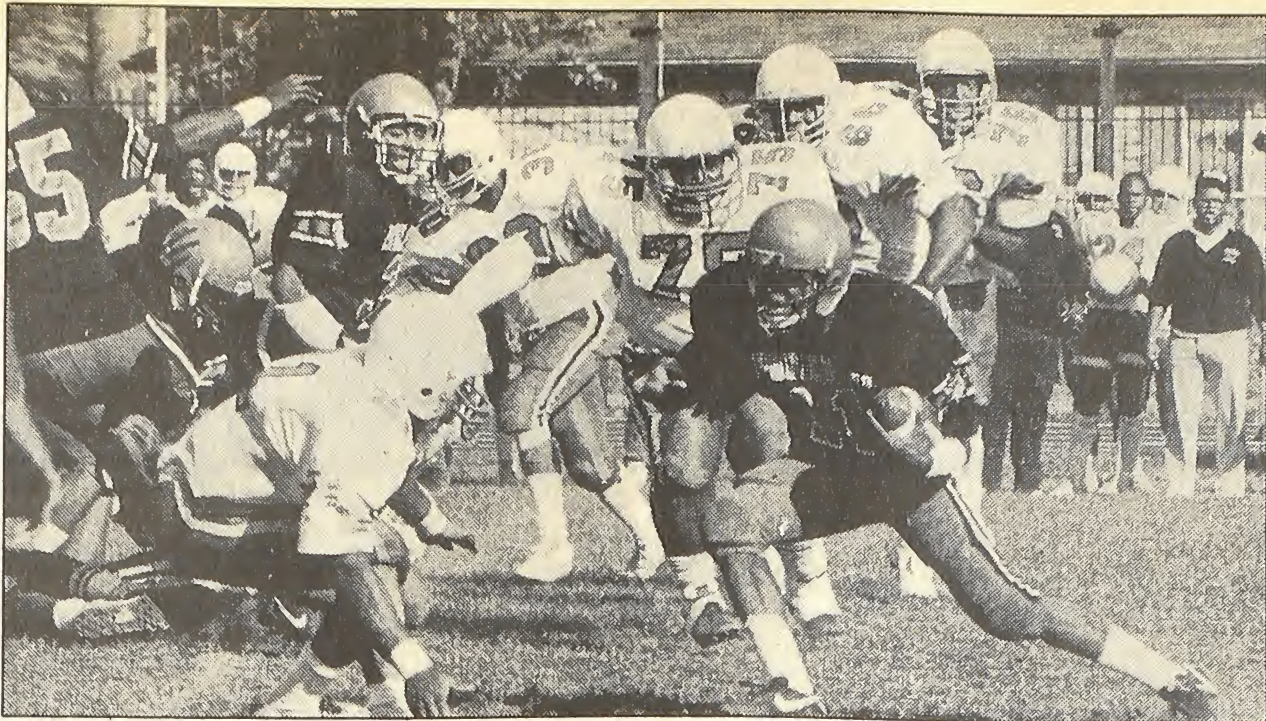

It went right down to the last minute of the game, but Romulus managed to pull out of a three-game losing streak at the expense of Temperance Bedford Friday night.

Trailing 16-14 in the final seconds, Coach Norb Glover and the Eagles put the winning touchdown on the scoreboard with 43 seconds left. Quarterback Dave Blandford found Ali Campbell open and hit him with a 10-yard scoring pass. Then, Blandford booted the extra point to give the Eagles their first win in four starts, 21-15.

"This victory was especially sweet because, along with it being our first win of the year, it also was a victory before the home crowd," Glover said. "And, it also proves we can compete against those teams that are in our class."

In that decisive last minute drive, Romulus moved from midfield to the end zone thanks to the efforts of Campbell, who had a 15-yard run squeezed between a 25-yard pass from Blandford to tight end Randy Rhoden.

The game looked like it was going to be a Romulus blowout. The Eagles scored twice in the first quarter as Arol Trinity broke loose on a trap play and raced 65-yards for a touchdown. That gave the home team a 6-0 edge after they missed the conversion.

Later in the quarter, Blandford bootlegged from the six to score the second TD. A pass to Trinity from the Romulus QB was good for two, and as the horn sounded to end the period, the Eagles were flying high, 14-0.

The euphoria didn't last. Temperance countered with eight points in the second frame, then added another TD plus a two-point conversion to go ahead, 16-14, heading into the fourth quarter.

The scoreboard didn't change until the final minute. Campbell had an excellent night as he scampered 86 yards on 18 tries, and Blandford was on target with eight of his 14 passes for a total of 97 yards.

Defensively, senior linebacker Rick Champagne again stood out as "he was all over the field," according to Glover. Michael Maull had two interceptions that erased potential Temperance threats.

But the victory proved costly for the Eagles, who may have lost Trinity for the next couple of weeks. He sustained an ankle injury that leaves him on the doubtful starting list for this week's game against Ypsilanti.

Ypsilanti has always been a thorn in the Eagles' sides.

And, Romulus has the dubious honor of meeting the Braves on Homecoming evening.

"Ypsilanti is coming off a 28-13 loss to Adrian," Glover pointed out, "and, needless to say they will be out for blood. Our game plan is to contain their running game, and to continue to improve our offense. We're going to play, tough, believe me."

Riverview gives Huron boot, 3-0

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Close only counts in horseshoes.

But, New Boston Huron and Coach Tom LaBeau believe that losing a nail biting, cliff-hanging 3-0 decision to undefeated Riverview proves the Chiefs can play with the best of them.

"It was the best defensive game we have played this year," said LaBeau. "They're undefeated and didn't score a touchdown on us. They beat us with a field goal."

On three separate occasions, the Chiefs put together scoring drives that fizzled. On one of those drives, LaBeau called upon Jon Tackett for a 37-yard field goal that missed its target. They also were in scoring range in the third period and another field goal attempt, again by Tackett and this time from the 20, went astray because of a bad snap.

And, when quarterback Paul Hill fired a pass to a wide open receiver in the end zone...and the ball was dropped, LaBeau said he felt "it just wasn't in the books for us."

But Riverview had to sweat for every inch they got. Middle guard Mike Tavtigian, a 5-8, 175-pound senior, tackle Tom Waters, linebacker Lenny Ziegler, and Tackett were outstanding on defense.

Ziegler, a senior fullback, also accounted for most of the 74 yards the Pirates gave up on the ground. He rushed for 55 yards on 15 carries. Penalties, 12 of them, cost Huron 75 yards, also played a pivotal role in the outcome of this defensive duel.

Loser in all three of its conference games this season, Huron will travel to Flat Rock in hopes of breaking the streak. But it won't be easy, according to LaBeau.

Robichaud's Tyrone Wheatley (with ball) has nowhere to go on this play as Oak Park defenders close in on him. However, the freshman has been unstoppable this season, as he rushed for 101 yards on 11 carries and two touchdowns to lead the undefeated (in conference competition) Bulldogs to a onesided 40-6 victory over the Parkers. Robichaud will face River Rouge Friday in Rouge for a showdown for the Suburban Athletic Conference lead. The winner of the game will be in the driver's seat of the conference.

Competing in her first gymnastics meet of the season in Lansing, Heather Martin of Belleville earned medals in five events.

Martin was second in the all-around events after placing fourth on the vault, third on the uneven bars, third in floor exercises and first on the balance beam.

Teammates who also placed in the top 10 included: Stacey Shattleroe, with a third in vault and fourth on uneven board.

Belleville (Continued from C-2)

Monroe took over at mid-field drove over the goal line in 10 plays with fullback Bryant Rochowiak getting the score.

Belleville's defense gave the Tigers an excellent scoring chance when Charlie Dilts intercepted a screen pass at mid-field and returned it to the Trojan 15. However, on the first play, the Tigers lost 10 and on a third down situation, Monroe intercepted the ball but on the same play fumbled it back to the Tigers via Ray Lewis on the Monroe 37.

Terrance Smith picked up seven yards and J.P. carries the next four times, making it to the 18 before the Tigers went to the air and a ball, with touchdown written all over it, was dropped in the end zone.

"Monroe is a good football team," McCaerney said. "But we definitely hurt ourselves."

Janeck apparently has found himself a job at quarterback. Halfway in the second period he was given the assignment and proved he can handle the pressure.

"He (Janeck) looked good," McCaerney said, "and I believe he deserves a chance at the job."

Despite their fourth consecutive loss, McCaerney was pleased with the performance turned in by his sophomore linebacker Vince Sacco. And strong safety Bubon Bellinger also stood out.

Harris placed fourth nationally in the boys' 200 meter run in the 11- to 12-year-old category. He became eligible to compete in the national meet due to his efforts in the state meet last summer. THE MICHIGAN HIGH SCHOOL Athletic Association is sponsoring a contest among member school students to create a new association logo. Recognition for the contest winner will include a trip to the Pontiac Silverdome on Nov. 28, where he or she will be honored and the new logo revealed during halftime of the boys' class A football final game. The logo contest began Sept. 14 and continues through Nov. 6. It is open to any middle school, junior high or senior high student whose school is a member of the MHSAA. Entry forms and contest rules are available through school principals, art teachers and athletic directors. Students may also call the MHSAA at (517) 332-5046.

LLOYD CARR, DEFENSIVE coordinator for the University of Michigan football team, stated his belief that the Wolverines would rebound from their opening-day loss to Notre Dame. It appears that Carr, a former head coach at both Belleville High and Westland John Glenn, knows what he is talking about, since the Wolverines came back seven days later and whipped Washington State. The final score of 44-18 reflected a Michigan team that had more success in holding onto the ball on the ground. Demetrius Brown, the Michigan quarterback, also had a much better day, showing the large crowd that he could not only find his receivers down field, but run the option as well.

TYRONE WHEATLEY, A freshman at Robichaud High School, broke a school record by scoring five touchdowns in one game against the Red Raiders of Ecorse High School. Wheatley's exploits included a 94-yard run, which broke yet another school record. The final outcome of the event was 52-0 in favor of Coach Bob Yauck's Bulldogs.

VALENTINE SCHUMPF, A freshman at Belleville High School, beat more than 100 of her peers to the finish line at the New Boston Huron Cross Country Invitational to win a gold medal in the 5-kilometer race. Schumpf, who weighs 90 pounds and stands 5 feet, 4 inches tall, insisted that she was ready to run another 5K when the race had ended!

Grace strikes up a 289

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Area bowlers have just begun league competition, but a powerful 289 score by Eddie Grace Jr. at Westland Bowl last week proves that the bowlers have been practicing during the off-season.

The 200-club is growing in the area, the 700-series bowlers are likewise becoming more numerous. Each week in this spot we will highlight the noteworthy bowling achievements of participants in the areas served by this newspaper. League secretaries and alley owners are urged to call our newsroom (729-4000) to report scores and results.

Bang!
Canton can't post a win, fall 2-1

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Bad breaks are a part of any sport, but the Canton boys' soccer team is having more than their share these days.

The Chiefs (2-4 league, 3-7 overall) fell to Northville, 2-1, Wednesday but completely controlled the game from start to finish.

"We dominated the game," said Canton Coach Mike Morgan. "I really don't know what else to say."

Canton outshot the visitors from the North, 36-10. The Chiefs trailed at half time, 2-0, despite a fine performance by senior Todd Nichols. The center-forward hit a blast from about 25 yards out in the first half and rattled the crossbar. Nichols followed the shot with another of equal strength to hit the post.

bowled a 716 series; Gregg Harris rolled a 711 series; Ron Rajoa scored a 722 series; Bob Jower scored a 736 series; and Charlotte Weaks bowled a game of 243. Other top scores included Phil Roberts with a 279, George Sineran, who bowled a 279 game, and Bob Berman, who rolled a 725 series.

Romulus Bowling Center, 37425 Huron River Drive, Romulus - Richard Starkey scored a 239; Bill Bower rolled a 580 series; Marsha Bergeron scored a 204; and Lynn Linderman scored a 510 series.

Fiesta Lanes, 38250 Ford Road, Westland - Rich Smith scored a 696 series; Bob Forsythe rolled a 279; and Rich Mewton rolled a 754 series.

Town and Country Lanes, 1100 S. Wayne Road, Westland - Ron Hubbard rolled a 683 series; Rick Renwick rolled a 618 series; and Butch McKina scored a 655 series.

On the ladies side, Tookie Williams rolled a 544 series; Jean Miller scored rolled a 541 series; and Ann Marie Begin bowled a 558 series.

Westland Bowl, 5940 N. Wayne Road, Westland - Eddie Grace Jr. bowled a game of 289; Dave Sill rolled a 279; as did Ed Patino; and Mike Kain. Mike Tochla bowled a 269.

Wayne Bowling and Recreation, 36900 Michigan Ave., Wayne - Dick Grezick bowled a 277; Craig Senkowsi rolled a 699 series; Mike Simonds bowled a 287; and Ernie Gatzdag Jr. bowled a 705 series.

Senior Andy Shiner of Canton collides with a Northville player during the Chief's 2-1 loss on Wednesday. Todd Nichols scored the lone goal for Canton.

That's enough to frustrate anyone.

"Todd and Jim (Hadde) played an exceptional game for us," praised Coach Morgan.

Nichols scored the lone Canton goal in the second half, off of a throw-in by junior Rick Menary.

The Chiefs will travel to Harrison on Monday.

THE PLYMOUTH-SALEM Rocks lost their second game of the season and first in league competition Monday to Livonia Churchill, 1-0. Churchill, currently ranked second in the state by the Detroit News, scored in the first half and kept the Salem offense from scoring to gain the victory.

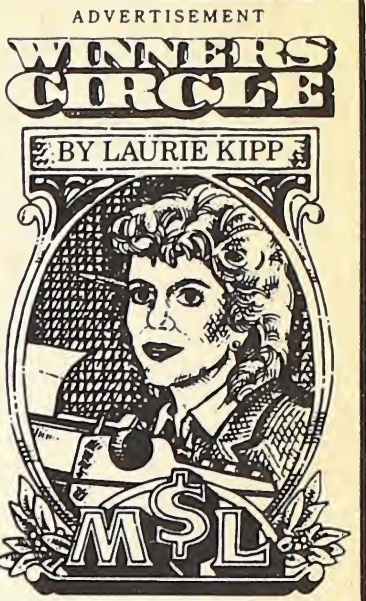

"It was an excellent soccer game," said a slightly disappointed Salem Coach Ken Johnson.

"I feel we outplayed them, but we couldn't finish tonight," said Johnson, whose team outshot Churchill, 10-6. "The goalies on both sides played a super game."

On Wednesday, Salem won a close game against Farmington, 1-0. Senior, co-captain Randy Balconi scored the game winner for the Rocks.

"This was also a good game," said Johnson. "The teams in this league have gotten a lot better. There are some real good players around these days."

Salem (7-2-1 overall) will host Troy tomorrow and powerful Stevenson on Monday.

Recently there have been a number of misleading stories indicating that Michigan Lottery ticket sales are dropping. The following sets the record straight.

Q: Is the Lottery experiencing a drop in ticket sales?

A: No, ticket sales are increasing. However, after doubling over the past five years, the rate of increase in sales has slowed down.

Q: What are these budget projections and revenue shortfalls I've heard about?

A: These concern sales projections made more than two years ago when Lotto was a brand new game and sales were shattering all previous records for Michigan and other states. It became apparent early this year that a $1.2 billion projection for the 1988 fiscal year (next year) made at that time was not attainable, so it was revised downward.

However, this does not mean that total ticket sales will be down from the 1986 record $999.4 million! We expect to finish the 1987 fiscal year with a new record of over $1 billion in sales.

Q: But, aren't Lottery ticket sales increasing across the country?

A: Yes, primarily because of the number of new lotteries getting started throughout the U.S. Ticket sales in other mature Lottery states are also beginning to level off.

Q: How do Michigan's sales compare to other states?

A: During 1985, Michigan ranked fourth among 23 lotteries in terms of net revenue for each $1,000 of personal income in the state.

Q: Has Michigan reached the saturation point in terms of Lottery ticket sales?

A: Only the players can determine the answer to that question.

Q: If Lotto was the catalyst for Michigan's growth, is there another game that could have the same effect on sales?

A: All lotteries are in search of just such a game. But, to date no one has found a game that can create the excitement that Lotto did.

Q: How much does the Lottery contribute to the state school aid fund?

A: In the 1985 fiscal year, Lottery contributions to the state School Aid Fund topped $415 million—the equivalent of about $130 per Michigan household.

'Dr. Appliance'

Business owner has cures for most home improvements

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

One Maytag repairman is not the loneliest person in town, contrary to popular opinion.

Joe Gannon, better known as the "Appliance Doctor," is a local consumer advocate. From his repair center on Ford Road in Garden City - Carmack Maytag Home Appliance Center - Gannon will talk by phone to more than 300 consumers each day.

"They don't call because they're having problems with Maytag. I only service Maytag because it's the best product on the market. But they call to solicit advice on how to fix their dryers, refrigerators, air conditioners or whatever. They need help, and I give it to them - free!" Gannon explained.

Gannon has made a name for himself across the United States as an advocate for consumer affairs in the appliance industry. On the local scene, his talk show on WCAR radio during the past two years has garnered a steadily increasing audience.

The program is broadcast from 8 to 9 a.m. each Friday.

The director of Consumer Affairs for the city of Detroit, Esther Shapiro, frequently invites Gannon to speak during her weekly radio program on WWJ. He also has appeared on Kelly and Company and Good Afternoon Detroit. Even "America's Handyman" Glen Hagie has sought advice from the local appliance guru, as have officials from 60 Minutes of CBS.

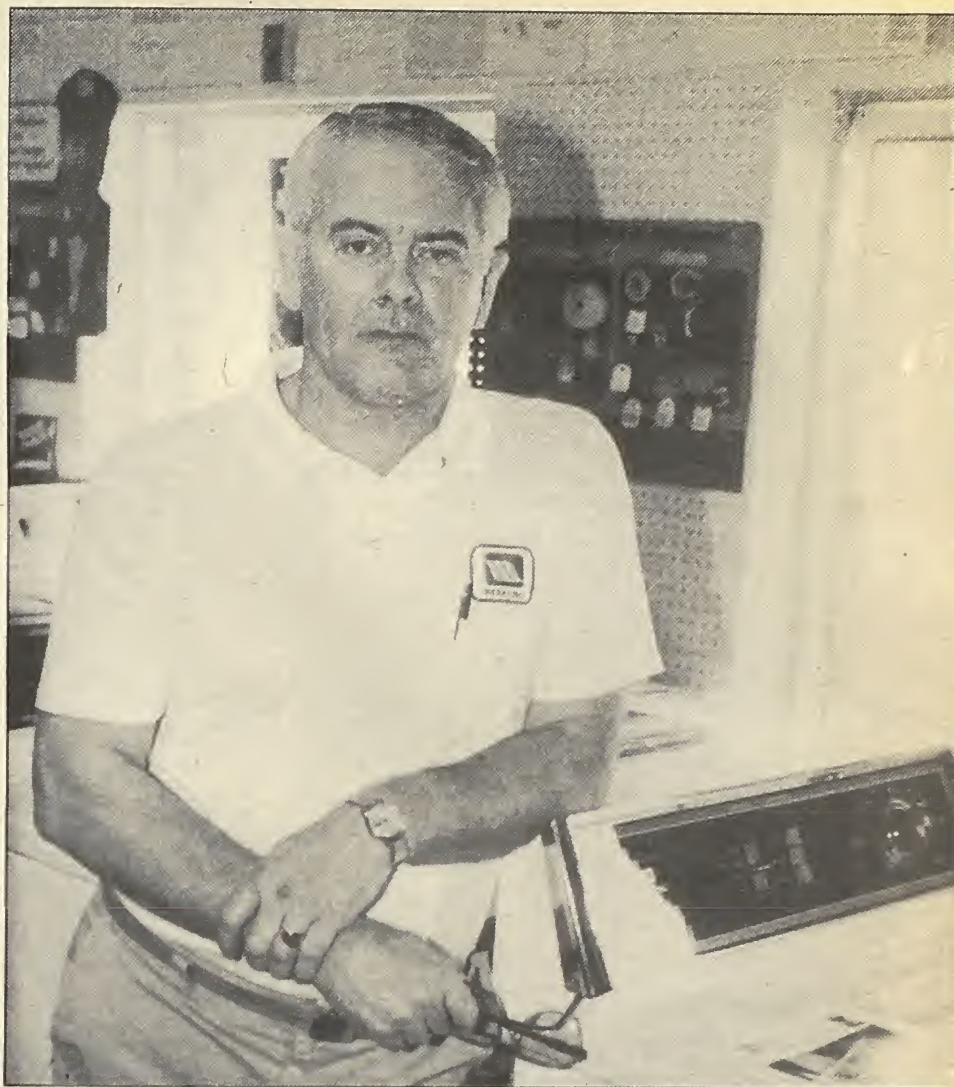

Gannon, whose business has been a landmark for the past 35 years, assists up to 18,000 do-it-yourself repairmen each year.

"My business is probably the largest do-it-yourself repair shop in the United States as well as in the Detroit metropolitan area," Gannon said.

The appliance doctor has written a book, Refrigerator Repair, for the city of Detroit and was the major force behind legislation now pending in the state of Michigan to establish a statewide regulatory agency for the appliance industry.

Because of Gannon's efforts, Underwriters Laboratories have re-

MAKE A HARD WINTER EASY.

When winter calls for dramatic action, call in the big blades of Snapper's 10 hp commercial snowthrower. This machine is a real snow buster clearing a 30" path while allowing you to throw the snow to either side. With Snapper's famous disc drive you choose from 4 forward speeds and reverse at the touch of a lever. The sub-zero winterized engine and heavy gauge steel augers tackle anything winter dishes out. Darkness is no barrier when you turn on the standard headlight beams.

Fall fix-up

Change in season signals return to the homestead

As the weather gets cooler, many do-it-yourselfers find themselves spending more time indoors wondering what to do to occupy their weekend afternoons. What about engaging in indoor home improvements like converting an unused attic into a room, remodeling a kitchen or upgrading a bathroom?

Although many homeowners may consider improvements such as these as nothing more than an additional expense, they can most often be considered as profitable investments. Naturally how profitable the investment depends on the demand for housing in the area, the size of the home, and the age and condition of it - to name a few.

Some improvements can return from 85 percent to more than 100 percent or more of their costs when the home is sold.

The CertainTeed Home Institute recommends the following indoor home improvements as they offer the best pay-backs:

- Kitchen remodeling provides an 85-90 percent return on your investment and improves family comfort and enjoyment.
- Converting basements into bedrooms, work rooms, dens, or sewing rooms are quite popular and usually return between 95-98 percent of their cost. In addition, they add to a home's appeal at resale.
- Interior "cosmetic" improvements such as wallpapering, paneling and painting of walls and ceilings, not only make you feel good, but lure buyers at the time of sale. Normally they yield anywhere from 100 to 110 percent recovery.

- Turning unused space into an extra bathroom is also a popular home improvement, providing 90 to 100 percent return at resale. Extra bathrooms are also quite desirable among prospective buyers. If you always wish your home had an extra bathroom, add one.
- Attic conversions, particularly ones which yield an additional bedroom with half bath, ensure anywhere from 100 to 105 percent of cost - providing the room is well insulated. Upgrading insulation with CertainTeed Fiber Glass Insulation is also important because, according to a recent survey in Professional Builder magazine, energy efficiency is still a top-priority among home buyers.

- Fireplaces are almost a remodeling must these days - offering a 133 percent return at resale, perhaps the fullest recovery on a home improvement investment possible.

If you're interested in pursuing an indoor home improvement not mentioned above and aren't sure whether or not to go ahead with it, George Hoffmann of the Home Institute suggests weighing the pros and cons of the improvement to determine if it will provide you with added convenience, comfort and/or satisfaction.

If it does, "go ahead with it as long as you're not over improving your home above your neighborhood norm in the process."

Prepare for winter with simple checks

Fall is the time of year when many homeowners begin preparing their homes for the colder months to come.

Smart do-it-yourselfers everywhere can be seen installing storm windows and doors, making last minute roof repairs and patching siding to protect their homes against inclement weather.

And to combat potentially high fuel bills, many homeowners are also engaging in energy saving improvements on the insides of their homes this fall. One of the most popular jobs is the upgrading of insulation levels.

Adding extra insulation to the attic is easy and can be completed in a single afternoon.

To give homeowners an added incentive to insulate, CertainTeed Corporation is offering a dollar back on each package of its 3½ inch thick R-11 (or greater) fiber glass insulation - unfaced, kraft or foil faced - purchased from Sept. 3 through Oct. 25. Homeowners have the chance to receive up to $30 back from the company.

To receive a rebate from CertainTeed, homeowners simply fill out a coupon (available at the retailer display) and mail it with the original sales receipt and UPC symbol from each package of CertainTeed 3½ inch thick R-11 (or greater) fiber glass insulation to the address on the coupon. Requests must be received by Nov. 15, 1987. Rebates will be mailed directly from CertainTeed.

For more information on taking a bite out of your winter energy costs, write to CertainTeed Corporation, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, Pa 19482.

Dr. Appliance

versed an endorsement of vinyl ducting to vent dryers because the ducting is suspected to be the cause in several house fires. Gannon discovered that the plastic ribbing of the vent traps lint in the dryer and causes the appliance to overheat.

"The American public is starving for information. At the present time, the state of California is the only state with such an agency. Ironically, next to Philadelphia, Detroit is a leader in the consumer movement," Gannon explained.

"Two out of three people are ripped off from their local service repair industry. Some figures state 99 percent of all service-repair centers provide unwanted and unneeded services. I've seen consumers spend $1,200 on what should have been a $100 repair. The enormous expense and incompetence among service industry representatives is disgraceful," he said.

A 'quacky' solution

Quackgrass is a cool-season perennial grass that spreads rapidly from both seeds and rhizomes and can be controlled very effectively with a fall treatment. Research shows that a single application with a translocating herbicide provides immediate control and gives up to 85 percent control two cropping seasons later. This application is recommended during the cooler fall weather. Special photo to ANP

HIGHTAIL IT TO THE BUCK-A-BUNDLE REBATE DISPLAY.

Insulate now and save up to $30. Help take the bit out of winter energy costs and CertainTeed will reward you for doing it. With $1 back on every bundle you buy-up to $30.

You can get a rebate on each package you buy of CertainTeed Fiber Glass Insulation-up to 30 packages in all. See our display for details. Offer limited and expires October 25, 1987.

Make holidays merrier with fall improvements

We all know someone who, the day after Christmas, starts planning for the next one, buying discounted greeting cards and wrapping paper. These people pick up gifts throughout the year and wrap everything by Thanksgiving. Their Christmas menus are selected midsummer; cards are in the mail Dec. 1.

But most people aren't in such great shape when the first strand of tinsel appears in shop windows. Suddenly, all the extra chores and obligations seem overwhelming.

Pressure created by that neglected family or living room you'd meant to spruce up all year won't go away. Holiday candles and decorations alone won't hide the problems this season, and time won't permit a major overhaul. Most important, you can't face a terrible mess created by plaster dust and wood chips just before the onslaught of company.

Think windows

If, for example, your room feels crowded and stuffy, consider first the effect your window has on it, notes the American Window Coverings Manufacturers Association. Achieve a dramatic change just by addressing this key design element. Should you have a small room with low ceilings, the simple solidity of wood blinds with a delicate swag top treatment maintains the elegant impression of drapery, and equally complements antiques or traditional furniture. This style of window treatment appears to open the room rather than drag down the ceiling. To make the room seem even less cramped, make sure you remove any extra fabric on upholstery skirts and tables and watch out for too many pillows.

Add Height

Another way to visually stretch the height of the room is by selecting vertical blinds, installed floor to ceiling. Verticals are available in a range of styles, from contemporary to traditional, in fabric or in aluminum in wood tones and in a rainbow of colors. Place hinged screens on either side of the treatment to both define it and further emphasize room verticality and height.

The new impression your room makes will surprise you, as will the ease with which you've accomplished the transformation. You'll enjoy the gift of a newly decorated gathering place throughout the year.

Blown-in insulation is the 'easy' energy saver

Many homeowners, interested in saving heating energy and making their dwellings more comfortable this season are finding that there's more than one way to insulate a house. In fact, many dual income couples are hiring contractors to install blown-in insulation, rather than sacrificing a weekend afternoon to install the material themselves.

If you're thinking about upgrading the insulation levels in your home with a blown-in material, you may want to learn more about it and its installation process.

Types of blown-in insulation

Blown-in insulations are available in three main types: fiber glass, rock wool and cellulose.

Fiber glass is the most popular type among homeowners today. It is spun from molten glass into fibers, and is an extremely effective insulating material because it has millions of tiny pockets to resist the flow of heat and cold. Perhaps the best blown-in fiberglass insulation is Insul Safe II, a non-combustible, noncorrosive material.

Rock wool, the second type of blown-in insulation, is similar to fiber glass except it is spun from molten slag and other rock-like materials instead of molten glass.

Cellulose, the third type of blown-in insulation, is made from recycled newspapers. It must be treated for fire safety.

All three types are packaged in slightly compressed bags.

Installing blown-in insulation

The one thing all blown-in insulations have in common is that they are fed into a pneumatic blowing machine and blown under high pressure through a long flexible hose. The procedure is relatively simple for a professional insulation contractor.

If you're having your attic insulated, the contractor will first funnel the insulation hose into your attic through any available opening. Next, he will blow in the insulation completely covering the attic floor.

If you have a semi-finished attic, the insulation contractor will remove some of the floor boards, blow the insulation into the cavity, replace the boards and move on to the next joist space.

Installing blown-in insulation in side-walls requires a few more steps. First, the contractor will remove some of your home's outside siding. Next he will drill small openings into the wall cavities. Once the cavities are filled with insulation, the holes are plugged with circular pieces of wood and the siding is replaced.

Add new spark to any room with creative wallpapering

The job of installing wallcovering is fairly easy, provided you have the time and the temperament. Both are essential to a job well done. When the time comes to hang wallcoverings, do it over a long or leisurely weekend or several evenings after work.

Here from the Wallcovering Information Bureau, are tips on hanging wallcoverings:

- Lay out two rolls of wallcovering to check the match. Check the pattern break at the ceiling. Some match straight across; others have a drop or random match. Neither a straight nor random match presents a problem. In a drop match, be sure the patterns match when the strips are butted together.

- Begin in an inconspicuous corner. Beside a door is a good place because any mismatch should be less noticeable. Use a plumb and chalk line to insure the starting point is straight.

- Consider prepasted, pretrimmed and strippable products. With prepasted wallcoverings, all that's required is to dip the strip in water to activate the dry glue on the backing.

Pretrimmed wallcoverings are ready to hand right from the package. Strippable wallcoverings can be removed from the walls completely without scraping, steaming or damaging the walls. They are especially popular with consumers who live in apartments or decorate frequently.

Move into position

- Before hanging the first strip, hold the wallcovering against the wall and move it up and down until the best spot for the pattern break is found. Position the strip against the wall and check to see that the strip is long enough.

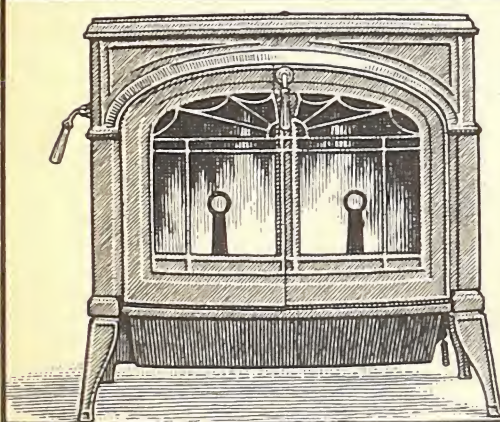

- Install one strip at a time, checking the match carefully until you gain assurance. With a drop match, you'll have to shift the strip around until the pattern matches the previous strip.

- Besides a table, ladder and drop cloth, the essential tools may be purchased separately or in kit form at the same paint and decorating stores, home centers or department stores where the wallcoverings were purchased. These retail outlets also have personnel who can offer expert advice on colors, styles, patterns and how to apply wallcoverings.

An entirely new look can be created in any room of the house with a variety of shapes, designs and colors of wallpaper. Vertical blinds, such as this new "Satin Shantung," can likewise enhance the room appearance. Together, the wallpaper and blinds create a soft backdrop for the plump contemporary sofa and traditional accessories. Special photo to ANP

Beat bats before they make a home

Sitting outdoors during a summer evening sundown and watching the bats dip and swoop and flutter as they catch insects on the wing can be quite enjoyable - until you realize that the bats are coming out of your house.

"It's not always easy to get rid of bats in your home," said Glenn Dudderar, wildlife specialist at Michigan State University. "But it gets impossible in the winter. If you allow the bats to go into hibernation in your attic, that's where they'll be until spring. There's no way to rouse them once they've entered their dormant state."

While the weather is still warm and bats are still active, there's a chance. The first step is to find out where they're entering your home. This may mean standing on a different side of the house around sunset on several consecutive nights until you spot the bats leaving. Dudderar advises going outside a short while before sundown so your eyes have a chance to adjust to the waning light. This will improve your chances of spotting the small, dark shapes as they emerge.

Once you've found the entry way for the bats, you need to close it while they're outside flying. Wait an hour or two after sunset to make sure they're all out, and then close up openings under eaves, around chimneys or near windows with window screen or hardware cloth, caulk, fiberglass insulation or some other material. Dudderar urged. Unless the bats have an alternative entrance, this will keep them from returning to their roost and force them to find another.

Summertime beauty begins with proper fall planting

Many home gardeners see fall as a sort of second spring, a second chance to plant trees and shrubs in the landscape.

Most woody ornamentals, both evergreens and deciduous plants, can be planted in the fall, according to Curt Peterson, horticulture specialist at Michigan State University. Evergreens, both the broad leaf and narrow leaf types, should always be purchased as balled and burlapped (B and B), balled and potted (B and P) or container-grown plants. Deciduous plants may be purchased in all of those ways, as well as dormant and, in the spring, bare-root - i.e., with no soil on the roots.

An advantage of buying bare-root plants is that you can handle a plant with a much larger root system (any may therefore be able to plant a much larger plant) if it doesn't have a ball of soil around its roots. Peterson points out.

The keys to success with fall-planted ornamentals are to plant them properly and protect them against winter injury.

Balled plants need a hole 50 percent wider than the soil ball. The hole should be just deep enough to put the plant at the same depth at which it had been growing.

If there's a container around the root ball, remove it before setting the plant in the center of the hole with the burlap still around it. Cut all twine or wire supports, then peel the burlap off the top and sides of the soil ball and drop it into the bottom of the hole. Trying to pull it out may injure plant roots, Peterson explains. Replace subsoil removed from the hole, firming with the fingers, then water. When the water has drained away, add the top soil.

When you remove the container from a container-grown plant, the root system should retain the shape of the container but not be tightly matted or potbound, with roots circling the bottom of the pot. Before planting, separate the root system from the growing medium by grasping the roots and gently pulling them apart into a flattened and more natural shape. Set the

Adding insulation to attic is sure to cut fuel bills

The Department of Energy predicts that energy costs will double by the year 2000 and many smart homeowners are investigating ways to make their homes as energy efficient as possible.

Energy conservation experts at the CertainTeed Homes Institute suggest that insulation is one of the homeowner's best weapons for combatting high energy bills.

If you're contemplating upgrading the insulation levels in your home this fall, the best place to begin is in the attic, since most heat loss occurs through the roof. Insulating an attic is a relatively easy procedure which can be done in a single afternoon.

To begin the job, measure the amount of insulation already installed in your attic. If it is six inches or less, adding a layer of 6 1/2" thick R-19 fiber glass insulation is recommended as a minimum. R-value is the insulation's resistance to heat flow: the higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power and the greater your possible savings.

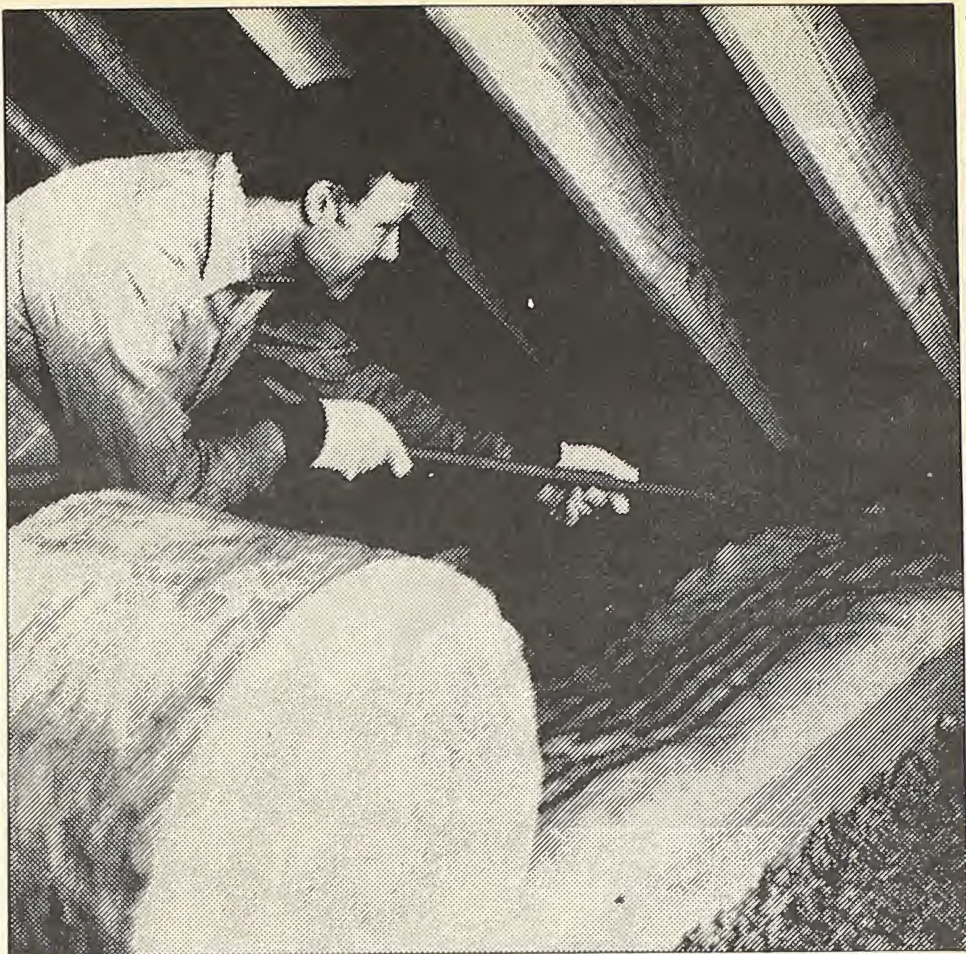

After determining the thickness of your existing insulation, you'll need to find the distance between your attic joists (or wood beams). In most cases, the space will be either 15 or 23 inches.

This is the width of the insulation you'll need.

Next, compute the size of your attic in terms of square feet by multiplying its length by its width. If the space between the joists is 23 inches wide, multiply the total number of square feet by .94. If the space is 15 inches wide, multiply by .90. This compensates for the space taken up by the joists. You'll then know the proper amount of insulation necessary to complete the job.

What type of insulation is right for your attic? There are many kinds. Fiber glass, like CertainTeed's batts and rolls, is by far the most popular among do it yourselfers today because it is thermally efficient and comes in convenient packages with easy-to-carry handles. After you've purchased insulation and are ready to install it, gather a sharp knife, gloves to protect against splinters, a push broom and a wide board.

Using the board as your work platform, start at one side of the attic and use the broom to push the insulation back under the eaves. Be sure to leave an opening for ventilation. Then, simply tuck the insulation down between the joists until you reach the center of the attic floor. Repeat this procedure on the other side. If you encounter beams

Insulating in the attic is a relatively simple project that can be accomplished in a single afternoon and can help save 30 percent on annual energy bills. Special photo to ANP or other obstructions, cut the insulation to fit snugly around them. You should, however, leave a three-inch space around exhaust fan motors, vents or recessed lighting fixtures, to guard against heat build-up.

plant in the center of a hole 50 percent bigger than the root mass and water to remove some of the potting mix from the root system. Then add subsoil, gently working it around the roots and firming it with your fingers. Water the subsoil to settle it and eliminate air pockets, then add topsoil. Do not put soil, especially fine-textured mineral soil, over the top of the potting mix - it can prevent water from entering the root ball.

Peterson advised against the common practice of firming the soil around new plants with your feet. This tends to pack the soil, driving out the air and closing the openings between soil particles that would admit the oxygen and water that tree roots need to function.

Protecting plants against winter injury may be critical to their survival, Peterson said. Newly planted trees may need staking to prevent wind damage, and evergreens exposed to drying sun and wind need to be shielded to prevent damage to foliage.

Trees with smooth-barked trunks need to be wrapped to prevent sunscald and keep bark from splitting as it warms and cools. Trunks shaded by small twigs, however, don't need wrapping.
